

FRENCH TROOPS CONTINUE ADVANCE IN GERMANY; MYSTERIOUS REPARATIONS PROPOSAL PUZZLES U. S.

PARIS ANNOUNCES BOYDEN PROPOSES NEW SETTLEMENT

Proposal Is Credited to American Observer Who Is Attached to Reparations Commission.

NO OFFICIAL APPROVAL GIVEN IN WASHINGTON

Secretary Hughes Issues Statement That No One Has Been Authorized to Submit a Plan.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, January 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Paris today stated that Roland Boyden, American observer with the reparations commission, had submitted a reparations settlement plan to the commission completely mystified officials here. The state department disclaimed all knowledge of the plan in a formal statement.

Officials felt certain there had been misunderstanding somewhere along the line. The prompt action of Secretary Hughes in authorizing a statement was believed to be due to the desire that it should be definitely understood the Washington government had no connection with any project, which has been laid before the reparations commission. The statement follows:

"The department does not know to what this dispatch refers. Neither the secretary nor any one in behalf of the department has approved any plan for submission to the reparations commission or has authorized any such submission. The department is not attempting directly or indirectly to fix German reparations or to prepare plans for the reparations commission. Mr. Boyden has no instructions to present any plan to the reparations commission."

Will Ask Explanation.

Lacking some explanation from Mr. Boyden that would clear up the mystery, no comment beyond the official statement was obtainable. There was every indication, however, that Mr. Boyden would be asked for such an explanation as would clear the matter up and show just what the proposition was he had in mind.

In some quarters there was speculation as to whether the settlement plan Mr. Boyden referred to might not prove to be that which has been discussed in American and other business circles for an expert commission to study German capacity to make reparations payments. As this proposal reached the chamber of commerce of the United States from a similar organization in Germany, it contemplated an unofficial American commission, not related to the reparations commission or the various governments. The same general theory of an impartial economic survey in Germany has run through unofficial discussion of the reparations crisis for months, however, and lacking more complete information as to Mr. Boyden's proposition, it was impossible to tell just what his statement today signified.

Lacks Official Approval.

The one thing that was apparently made entirely clear by the state department was that the project not only was not a renewal of the Hughes suggestion to the allied governments, but lacked official approval here and was not to be regarded as due to the initiative of the American government.

The mystery thus awaiting further word from Mr. Boyden to clear the air served to obscure to some extent the Washington view of the new developments in Germany due to widening of the French zone of occupation in the Ruhr. There is every reason

Blanche Ring and Winner On WGM Program Tonight

It's a great pity that everyone in Dixieland can't go to the Atlanta theater and hear Blanche Ring, Charles Winninger and the rest of her company, in "As You Were" this week. Here's good news, though, that will rejoice the hearts of every radio fan, at least.

Tonight, on the regular 6 o'clock program, Miss Ring, Mr. Winninger and the great male quartet from the company, will sing from WGM, the radio broadcasting station of The Constitution, giving some of the greatest songs hits of the show.

All who were at the Atlanta last night, know just what a treat it is to hear the radio fans tonight. If the telephone wires don't burn red hot with requests for encores, it will be because Miss Central is "listening in" herself and won't be able to pay any

Council Increases Street Work Funds

COUNCIL ADOPTS FINANCE BUDGET WITHOUT SLASHING

Effort to Cut Graham West's Salary for Inefficiency Receives Only One Vote at Session.

MORE FUNDS VOTED STREET DEPARTMENT

Armistead's Proposed Ordinance to Abolish Civil Service Referred to Ordinance Committee.

An unsuccessful fight by Councilman J. Allen Couch, of the fifth ward, to amend the 1923 budget sheet of the finance committee so as to effect a reduction in the salary of Comptroller B. Graham West and his chief clerk; adoption of the budget with no reductions and only one modification, and introduction of an ordinance to abolish civil service in the city police department, were outstanding features of the second session of city council of the year, Monday afternoon.

The aldermanic board, immediately following adjournment of council, met at the instruction of Mayor Sims, and approved the financial appropriation sheet with the one amendment by Councilman York. It now awaits only the mayor's signature to become effective.

In spite of more than a half dozen amendments proposed by members of council, the appropriation sheet, recommended by the finance committee, was adopted by council with only one amendment. Councilman Harry York's proposal that an item of $25,000 listed in general appropriations be transferred to the street department so as to come under the baby bond plan which would enable the city to borrow an additional $250,000 for street pavement, was the only amendment adopted to the appropriation sheet.

Councilman Couch, in introducing his amendment to the budget, requesting that Comptroller West's salary be reduced from $5,000 to $4,000 per year, and that of his chief clerk from $3,000 to $2,400 per year, charged the comptroller's department with "rank inefficiency," in giving out false figures with regard to the city's assets on January 1, 1923. Council's vote against the amendment upheld Mr. West.

"It is evident to me," asserted Councilman Couch, who is a member of the finance committee, "that the city comptroller is certainly the least informed with regard to the city's finances of any person in the city's employ. When the new administration assumed charge of the municipal government January 1, a number of councilmen and the chairman of the finance committee went to Mr. West and asked for a statement of the city's financial condition. They were informed that there was practically no deficit except uncollected tax fees. 'Then after council had met and committees were appointed Mr. West made the startling discovery that the city is in the hole about $900,000 from unpaid bills and other causes. I hate to charge the city comptroller with negligence, but it seems to me that this is nothing more than rank inefficiency.'"

Councilman James L. Wells, of the eighth ward, immediately voiced opposition to the amendment offered by Stubbs has been in jail exactly fifteen months today. He was originally sentenced to serve from one to five years.

UPSHAW'S BOOZE CHARGES ARE HIT BY PHILLIP HILL

Maryland Representative Says That Claims Should Not Be Allowed to Go Unchallenged.

CALLS IN RESOLUTION FOR SWEEPING PROBE

If Georgian's Charges Are True, Then It Proves People Consider Law a Joke, He Says.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh, N.C.

Washington, January 15.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire.)—Representative Phillip Hill, of Maryland, on the floor of the house today made a scorching attack on charges recently raised by Representative W. D. Upshaw, of Georgia, with respect to violations of the prohibition laws by high government officials and members of congress.

Declaring Mr. Upshaw had made a definite charge that "members of congress violate the laws they are sworn to defend," the Maryland representative said those reflections should not be permitted to go unchallenged.

"Proper criticism is right," he said, "but we should resent criticism that is not based on fact. 'I think the gentleman from Georgia in trying to sweep the house of prohibition has helped to 'overset it,' continued Mr. Hill. 'If as he says, governors, members of congress, senators and other officials deride the 18th amendment and violate the Volstead act, certainly that shows that the American people, who elect these same high officials consider the Volstead act as a joke. If they did not, would they elect such law-violating officials?'"

Upsetting Dilemma.

"So the gentleman from Georgia, has raised an upsetting dilemma. If his flaming charges are true, the Volstead act being obsolete to the nation's high officials, should be repealed. If his charges are not true, he should admit that with more zeal than knowledge he has branded you and me as law-breakers."

His Neck Broken, Lineman Refuses To Accept Death

Victim of Accident Clings to Life Doctors Expect Him to Live.

His neck broken by a fall from a power line pole at the East Point substation of the Georgia Railway and Power company Monday morning, George Corbin, 25 years old, lineman of several years' local service, laid Monday curiously declined to accept the views of attending physicians that he has only a few more hours to live.

"Don't tell me that," he grunted gamely, "for I'm not going to die. I'll fight it out and show you that a broken neck can't stop me."

And then began one of the most remarkable battles against death ever witnessed in the Atlanta hospital, according to doctors and friends who by his bedside. Chattering calmly, Corbin was apparently suffering no pain at midnight Monday.

TOO MANY MINES IN AMERICA, SAYS COAL COMMISSION

Bituminous Industry Instability Given as Fundamental Cause for High Prices and Coal Shortage.

GENERAL COAL STRIKE IN 1923 NOT EXPECTED

Steadier Employment Is Necessary Before Satisfactory Wage Scale Can Be Made.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, January 15.—(Special.)—The bituminous coal mining industry is the fundamental cause of high prices and the fuel shortage which has plagued the American public repeatedly in recent years, the United States coal commission held today in a preliminary report of its fact-finding investigation laid before congress.

Labor troubles, transportation difficulties and over-development of the industry in mines and manpower to a point where it is much larger than necessary to supply public demand for its product—all operations were continuous—were all three assigned as among primary causes for the condition. The exact bearing which these have upon the existing situation to study in its further inquiry.

Regarding the possibility of action, the commission said, it intended other general coal strike after April 1, the report said the commission "has reason to believe that an agreement will be reached in the near future that will avert any widespread cessation of mine operations in union fields on April 1."

Promote Industrial Peace.

The commission added that its work in promoting industrial peace by ascertaining and publishing reliable data on wages, earnings, employment volume, profits and costs involved in coal production will proceed with that understanding. Reference was made to the exchange of communications between the commission, miners' union officials and representatives of operators which has lessened the danger of the strike prospect.

Six members of the commission, John Hays Hammond, chairman; Dr. George Otis Smith, former director of the geological survey; Clark Howell, editor of The Atlanta Constitution; former Vice President Marshall, Charles P. Neill and Dr. Edward T. Devine, signed the report as rendered, while Federal Judge Aleschuler, whose judicial tenure has prevented his qualifying formally for service as commissioner, attached a memorandum approving the views of his colleagues. The commission was created by congress after the 1922 coal strike to investigate the entire coal problem.

Steadier Employment.

"There have been so many and such complex factors operating in the coal industry to prevent the free play of economic forces," the report

Tremendous Enthusiasm People Welcome Opportunity for Automobiles and Money Greets "Help Yourself Club"

Announcement in Sunday's Constitution of the $25,000 Help Yourself club has aroused tremendous enthusiasm and many nominations have already been received. Compliments are being heard on all sides of the liberality of the offer, which presents a wonderful opportunity to men and women in Georgia to share in the big list of awards, including eleven automobiles and $4,000 in cash.

One of the attractive features of the offer is the fact that there can be no losers. Every one who works will win. Every man or woman of reputable character is eligible to compete. However, no employee of The Constitution or dependent member of his family may compete.

The territory covered by The Constitution circulation has been divided into eight districts—three in the city of Atlanta and five outside. In each of these districts a complete set of prizes consisting of one automobile, $250, $150 and $100 cash will be given as prizes.

Savannah, Ga., January 15.—(Special.)—Ephraim Nance, aged 25, regaining consciousness today after an accident late last night, declared at the hospital that he did not know what hit him, mangle one hand and arm so badly that amputation was necessary today.

He was found by the side of a suburban car track about midnight in a serious condition, with a hand mangled and skull injuries from which he was unconscious.

He declared that while returning home from church he became faint and sat down on or near the car track. The street car operators have no knowledge of hitting him and he does not remember what struck him, he declares. He may recover.

CHIEFS HAVE NOT OFFERED TO QUIT ARMISTEAD SAYS

Police and Detective Heads and Police Chairman Refute Reported Compromise of Fight.

ACTION IS EXPECTED AT MEETING TONIGHT

Ordinance Introduced to Abolish Civil Service. Beavers Cannot Be Retired on Pension Now.

No agreement to resign as heads of their respective departments has been secured by the police committee of council from Police Chief James A. Beavers and Detective Chief A. Lamar Poole, it was declared Monday afternoon, by Jesse W. Armistead, chairman of the committee.

Persistent rumors that he has expressed his willingness to resign and accept a position of less importance on the force brought an emphatic denial from Chief Beavers.

Chief Poole said, "I do not know anything about the publication of rumors that I am to resign. I have not given out any statement upon the subject, and have nothing to say at this time."

Chief Beavers declared that he has expressed to no one his willingness to resign as chief, and that he has not heard Chief Poole say anything to indicate that he has reached such a decision.

Not Eligible for Pension.

Other developments Monday in the movement to oust the police heads were introduction of an ordinance in council which would abolish civil service regulations in the police department; and ruling by City Attorney James L. Mayson to the effect that Chief Beavers cannot be retired on pension until he has served the entire 35-year period required under the pension regulations. A proposal

"Home Office" Of Whisky Ring Raided Monday

Juniper Street Home Held Equipment for Captured Rye Whisky Still.

What police authorities termed the "home office" of the "rye" liquor syndicate which operated the giant distillery captured last week in a house at West Peachtree and Linden streets was raided Monday night when detectives swooped down on a residence at Juniper and Tenth streets and arrested Mrs. M. E. Johnson and seized various parts and appliances used in construction and maintenance of stills, and 20 quarts of whisky.

Eight of the 20 quarts, it was said, were of the same "rye" variety as the immense stock of contraband captured at the West Peachtree place.

Mrs. Johnson was carried to the Fulton county jail under a search warrant which was obtained before Judge T. O. Hatcock in municipal court. She was later released under $2,000 bond.

Police concluded that this place

KLANSMEN FEARED ATTACK BY FORCE FROM MER ROUGE

Witnesses Say That Members of Organization in Bastrop Had Meeting to Repel Invaders.

DENY RESPONSIBILITY FOR DOUBLE MURDER

New Ground Is Opened by State's Attorney in Task of Unraveling Louisiana Mystery.

Bastrop, La., January 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—New ground was opened today by state's attorneys in their task of unraveling the mystery surrounding the kidnapping and slaying of Watt Daniel and Thomas Richard, victims of black-headed kidnapers, and by the statements of two members of the Ku Klux Klan, putting into the record a recital of an assembling of klansmen in a store here in anticipation that Mer Rouge citizens might swoop down on Bastrop in retaliation.

James F. Harp and "Jap" Jones, farmers of Bonita, a village in the southern part of Morehouse parish, both members of the Parish Klan organization, testified that after the kidnapping of Daniel, Richard and three other men on the Mer Rouge-Bastrop pike, August 24 last, a dozen or more men, klansmen, gathered in a barnhouse here, armed themselves and prepared for eventualities.

Deny Any Guilt.

Both insisted that the Klan had no part in the kidnapping but that the gathering of the klansmen was deemed advisable as a precautionary measure in view of intense feeling prevailing in the parish.

"Why did you klansmen wait up that night?" was asked of Harp.

"It takes a long time to tell that story," Harp said.

"We heard the people of Mer Rouge had guns and a regular arsenal and we thought they might come over and blame the kidnapping on the Klan. We knew they were mad and up in arms about the kidnapping of Richard a week before and we were afraid it would be laid at our feet."

"Were you armed?"

"Yes."

"Did you have your masks?"

"No."

Jones testified along much the same lines as Harp as to the gathering in the Bastrop store.

"It was a serious thing," Jones said. "We had discussed it and decided to be prepared."

Denies Klan Responsible.

"Did you believe it was the Klan who did the kidnapping?" was asked of Jones.

"No, but I did want to know who did," he answered.

Jones told of making the round with his friends in Bastrop stores, trying to learn who might be responsible but without result. At no place he declared, could he find information

U. S. IS PLANNING FOR BIGGER TRADE IN SOUTH AMERICA

Preliminary Steps Are Being Taken Now, While Europe Is Floundering in Morass of Post-War Troubles.

GREAT TRADE BATTLE EXPECTED VERY SOON

United States Is Now Bending Every Effort to Extend Its Good Will Throughout the Entire Section.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, January 15.—While Europe flounders in a morass of post-war troubles, the Harding administration is seizing the opportunity to build a commanding position for the United States throughout the western hemisphere.

The South American tour which Secretary of State Hughes is to make in March is the latest project in a carefully planned chain of activity. He will visit Argentina, Brazil, Peru and other countries for the purpose of drawing closer ties with the United States by emphasizing the mutual interests which can be developed to the profit and increased security of the United States and the South American nations alike. Hughes also will attend the Pan-American conference at Santiago, Chile.

Solidity of World.

The problem of effecting the solidarity of the new world under American guidance is one to which President Harding attaches the greatest importance. He regards it as a necessary step in preparation for the trade battle which is expected as soon as Great Britain, France and Germany reach a settlement which will enable them to concentrate on selling can-

DECISION IS NEAR ON CAPPER BILLS

Backers Predict Farm Credits Legislation Will Be Passed Today by Unanimous Vote.

Washington, January 15.—Such progress was made by the senate today in consideration of farm credits legislation that managers predicted a vote tomorrow on the Capper bill, the first of the farmer relief measures to be taken up.

The credit legislation, pending in the form of two bills, was taken up after the administration shipping bill had been laid aside temporarily by unanimous consent to make way for the farmers' measures.

It was said tonight both bills might be passed this week. A unanimous vote for the Capper bill was predicted by its friends, but considerable criticism was promised for the complementary credits measure, the Lenroot-Anderson bill, providing for federal subscription to credit departments, under the farm loan system of $300,000,000 capital.

The senate took action which was said to mean defeat of the Norris bill proposing a government corporation to handle agricultural products. Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, demanded that his bill, which was reported several weeks before the farm credit legislation, be taken up first. His motion, however, was defeated 53 to 19. Mr. Norris said the defeat meant the loss of his bill, but

INVADING TROOPS FIRE INTO CROWD; GERMANS SCATTER

New Dispatches Say That Occupational Forces Have Now Advanced as Far as Dortmund.

CAVALRY AND INFANTRY OCCUPY MANY TOWNS

France Preparing to Inflict Penalties as Result of Deadlock in Economic Negotiations.

Paris, January 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—French and Belgian troops now occupy the whole Ruhr basin and have reached the limits of that neutral zone, 30 miles in depth, in which the Germans are barred from having reichswehr or regular garrisons. The troops are at the gates of Dortmund, where they were ordered to stop for the present.

In view of the progressive obstinacy of the German attitude, however, it has been decided to extend the advance Tuesday, occupying Dortmund and establish troops in the northeast, east and southeast, completely commanding the important railroad junctions.

Southward the advance will extend to Barmen and Elberfeld, which will not be occupied just now.

The promptitude with which the French are countering obstruction appears to be having its effect, at least on the industrial magnates, and there are indications that they will not persist in their refusal to deliver the reparations coal. In consequence of this the French may temporarily hold their hand.

Regularity Marks Advance.

The Franco-Belgian operations are being carried out with regularity. The normal life of the great industrial region continues unmodified; the factories are working as usual.

It was affirmed in official circles tonight that the French government has an instant counter-measure ready for any move the reich may make. All arrangements have been made to replace by appropriate measures to German menaces whether they concern questions of labor, food supplies or transportation. For instance, General Payot, director of communications, has taken steps to defeat the German plan to deprive the Ruhr basin of its rolling stock, which the Germans have just begun to put into operation.

The commission of control has discovered that the coal tax has not been collected for the past three months, enabling German industry to get coal at 40 per cent under the world prices, and measures have been taken to stop this.

sociated Press.)—The allied engineers' commission at Essen, acting in agreement with the French government, has decided, because of fresh information received, to suspend for twenty-four hours the order given for the requisition at the pithead of the coal due the reparations account. There is ground for hope that the mine owners will withdraw their decision, and announce this morning, to comply with orders from Berlin to cease deliveries of coal and coke to France.

COMFORT FOR GERMANS.

Berlin, January 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Government headquarters and the press generally apparently are obtaining considerable comfort from the national protest meetings held Sunday, enthusiastic reports of which continue to arrive. The demonstrations are said to have brought out huge crowds. There were no disturbances.

Today's reports from Essen also impressed official quarters, especially because of statements that the French were finding themselves in a quandary owing to their failure to whip the mine owners and operators into line, after the federal coal commissioner had issued an order prohibiting producers to furnish coal on French and Belgian orders.

These instructions of the coal commissioner followed a resolution passed at a special cabinet session on Sunday and did not represent the personal initiative of the official coal controller.

Germans Defy France.
Berlin, January 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—The German coal commission has prohibited the coal owners of the Ruhr from supplying coal or coke to France of Belgium even if payment is made for the fuel.

This stiffening attitude by the German government is expected here to precipitate dramatic action by the French government.

Washington Notified.
Washington, January 15.—The French embassy informed the state department today that five divisions, comprising a total of 45,000 men, would take part in the new move "to insure control over the Ruhr district," as a result of the German government's order stopping coal deliveries.

No comment was forthcoming regarding the troop movement from the state department, which was given the French communication for its information.

paigms in South America. Those countries can pay their heavy debts through selling machinery, textiles, electrical equipment and other commodities to the South American countries.

Argentina, Brazil and Chile are the best prospective customers Europe has. But the United States regards them as its customers and intends to keep them. Prospects are being made by some British trade experts for a triangular flow of goods between Europe, South America and the United States, but the effect of that would be to give the European countries the first chance at the South American buyers.

The small nations of Central America also come into the picture as the United States is anxious to continue as their moral sponsor.

To extend its good will throughout the hemisphere, the United States has carried on an intensive series of activities during the last year which include:

Many Steps Taken.
The Thoma-Africa conference at Washington in which Secretary of State Hughes assisted in solving a territorial dispute that threatened to bring war between Chile and Peru.

Visit of Secretary of State Hughes to the Brazilian exposition where the United States was elaborately represented.

Dispatch of a naval mission to assist Brazil in modernizing her navy.

Summoning of the Central American nations to a general conference here.

And the South American tour Secretary Hughes is to make in March.

This activity has little that is dramatic about it, and that reason it has almost escaped attention in the United States where the popular interest has been concentrated on the sensational story of the kidnapping of Daniel and Richard.

Europe. War and threats of war in Europe attract more interest than the quiet deliberate effort to extend American influence to the southward.

While the president and Secretary of State Hughes are yet willing to assist European nations in a settlement of the reparations problem if invited they believe the great constructive field of activity now lies in the western hemisphere. When the accounting is made to the country in 1924, they hope to point to an increase of American prestige south of the equator as one of the important achievements.

view of his fate. Neither had the intrepid Lineman.

While anxious relatives hovered about, Corbin's bed, friends in his "crew" watched with amazement the struggle between grit and steady determination to live against the terrible odds of a broken neck.

While this was happening, John-Loudermilk, a fellow worker of Corbin's, was resting easily after having suffered a badly burned hand in the same accident in which Corbin incurred his injuries.

Corbin was in the act of fastening his safety belt about 14 feet up a pole near the East Point station, where some improvements were being made when a guy wire got loose and fell across a high tension wire on the pole.

In an instant the entire surrounding was buzzing and jumping about under the spell of the heavy current of power that ran loose. Corbin, seeing his danger, jumped to the ground, but his safety belt caught on the pole, he spun around in midair and landed heavily on his neck.

Leaps to Safety.
Loudermilk, seeing that Corbin was about to jump and believing his body would come in contact with the charged guy wire made a sudden leap and grasped the wire with his bare hands, suffering painful burns. His act, however, saved Corbin from being burned, and the fact that Loudermilk was not instantly killed by the current was attributed to the fact that the short circuit caused by the guy wire coming in contact with the high tension wire had greatly weakened the force of the electricity.

The two were rushed to the Atlanta hospital about noon Monday where it was found that Corbin's neck was broken and that Loudermilk's injuries, while painful, were not serious.

added that he expected to support both credit measures.

Speeches on the credits legislation were made today by Chairman McLean of the banking committee, which reported the two credits bills, Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, chairman of the senate farm bloc, and Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama.

Senator Capper declared his bill would aid farmers substantially in obtaining longer term credits necessary for production and marketing of their products, without preventing establishment of still further credit machinery. He also announced he would support the Lenroot-Anderson government aid bill, asserting that all parties generally approved his bill and that it contained no unsound banking principles, Senator Capper said.

Witness, repeated a conversation he said he had with Captain Skipwith after the kidnapping of Daniel and Richard.

Captain Skipwith asked me if I knew anything of Daniel and Richard. I said it was a sorry come-off. He said 'you probably do not know why it was done, but the community thought they were bad characters, and needed attention.'

Hugh Davenport, father of "Tot" Davenport, one of the men kidnapped but not harmed at the same time Daniel and Richard were captured, said he had been notified that he was to be ordered "exiled" because of alleged anti-klan activities. The matter was adjusted in view of the fact that Mer Rouge, where he operates a mercantile establishment.

"Neither Chief Beavers nor Chief Poole has offered to resign at the committee's instigation," asserted Alderman Armistead, "or, at least, such offers have not been received by me as chairman of the committee, or by any other members of the committee, so far as I know."

City Attorney James L. Mayson ruled Monday that the tentative plans under discussion by the police committee to amend the present city ordinance so as to retire Chief Beavers on half pay for the remainder of his life, could not be effected without a charter amendment, according to Chairman Armistead.

"As a result of the city attorney's ruling on this question," Chairman Armistead stated, "the committee has abandoned this proposition. Chief

Lady Bowes-Lyon Will Be Married To Duke of York

Formal Announcement of Engagement Popular With People of England.

BY RALPH H. TURNER.
United News Staff Correspondent.
London, January 15.—The Duke of York, the younger brother of the Prince of Wales, and Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon are engaged.

"It is with the greatest pleasure that the king and queen announce the betrothal of their beloved son," the communication to the people of the realm stated. The circular added that the king and queen gladly give their consent to the match.

All of which left those in royal circles, as well as the commoners, in a quandary in view of the fact that reports were circulated recently, and vouched for by many, that Lady Elizabeth and the Prince of Wales were to become engaged. None, however, would venture the guess that the general prince had been outplayed in the cupid game by his brother.

The people of the country are naturally delighted that York has chosen an English girl instead of some member of royalty from the continent. "English girls for English royalty," has been the motto echoed time and again in the columns of the press and periodicals. Several papers are conducting campaigns to get Wales himself married off to one of his countrywomen.

was used as the warehouse and "home office" of the ring that operated in the large West Peachtree still, in view of the fact that a supply of labels and fake government stamps were taken. None of the captured copper boilers and vats were connected in the Juniper street home, it was also pointed out.

Assistant Police Chief E. L. Jett and Councilman Fred Woodall, of the police committee, rushed to the scene of the raid and carefully inspected the premises.

Mrs. Johnstone and her three children were the sole occupants of the house at the time of the raid. She refused to discuss the matter with the officers or reporters.

Valuable clues were obtained by the police in the raid Monday night that they hope will enable them to place under arrest the "brains" of the distilling ring, whose identity they say they know.

Mrs. M. G. Diggs, of 207 West Peachtree street, who was arrested in the raid of a plant whisky still at that address Friday, was bound over to the city court under $3,000 bond by Judge T. C. Hathcock in municipal court.

Mrs. Diggs was arrested on a state warrant charging her with distilling. She was remanded to the Fulton Tower in default of bond following the hearing Monday. Federal authorities have instructed that she be held for a commissioner's warrant charging violation of the prohibition act. The still outfit destroyed at the West Peachtree address is regarded as one of the most complete ever captured here.

DUPLEX BASIC PHOSPHATE

Manufactured by Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co.
Birmingham, Ala.

"This is a product of wonderful merit, greatly superior to ordinary 16% acid phosphate and farmers will adopt and use it regularly when they have made initial tests of it in comparison with 16% acid goods. Nearly half of our material is lime, 10%-15% of which is readily available for correcting soil acidity and the entire lime content eventually, after it is placed in the soil, doubtless becomes available and the regular use of the product therefore will not only correct but will prevent soil acidity.

In addition to this feature, our product carries full 18% phosphoric acid, 2½ to 3% manganese, 4 to 5% magnesia, 16 to 18% iron oxide, a small percentage of solvent silica and some other elements of greater or less value to the soil.

This fertilizer is not water soluble but is, we are convinced, 100% available in the soil to growing

DEFENSE RESTS IN HERRIN CASE

End Is Near to Trials of Five Men Charged With Participating in Illinois Outrages.

Marion, Ill., January 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—After having called 25 witnesses during the day to impeach testimony offered by the state, the defense in the trial of five men charged with the murder of Howard Hoffman, one of the victims of the Herring riots, rested its case late today. August W. Kerr, chief counsel for the defense, immediately renewed a motion made late in December that testimony introduced by the state be ruled out. Judge D. T. Hartwell overruled the motion and the prosecution announced it would begin its rebuttal tomorrow.

Before resting, the defense turned to the last act of the tragedy of June 22, the shooting down of six non-union workers at a little cemetery just outside Herring. G. J. Frick, Marion undertaker and former mine union official, testified that he had started from Marion to the cemetery about nine miles away in his automobile ambulance just as the town clock was striking nine the morning of the slayings.

Frick asserted he arrived at the cemetery about 9:30, saw the six dead and dying men in the road and the crowd surrounding them. He said he remained there about ten minutes when he called the coroner at Herring and that he saw no guns or abuse of any of the victims.

UPSHAW'S CHARGES HIT BY PHILLIP HILL

Uphshaw charges, Mr. Hill, a wet, asked the special attention of the members to the words used, which, he said, "are not the words of an exhorter calling you to the illicit practices which, in his opinion, are being pushed, but they are from a man who specifically charges that you members of the house of representatives violate the law."

He pointed out that evidence is not testimony but evidence is "that which convicts." And the members "can not take an oath never again to do a thing unless you admit that you have previously done it."

Here is what you are charged with: "They will never again build up a bootlegger's business by drinking any form or any amount of illicit liquor."

Shander Is Charged.

Then Mr. Hill referred to Representative Uphshaw's charge that bootleggers operated in the house office building, adding "in other words that building, which has been erected by the nation in order that we may do our work, is being slandered as being the temple of illicit buying and selling of liquor."

"My colleagues, he is referring to you and me," said Mr. Hill. "Those are the words of Brother Uphshaw, quoting his bootlegger and not my words."

"We know the situation with reference to extortion by the representative from Georgia, but in every little hamlet in this country, that message has been told to the world that you members of the house, whether you voted straight for prohibition and live straight for prohibition or are hypocrites and law violators. Gentlemen, if these charges are true, the knell of prohibition has sounded because it shows that the law is a joke. If these charges are not true we should vindicate the honor of this house."

Stock Perishes As Fire Destroys Forsyth Stable

Horses, Mules, Cows, Hogs, Automobiles and Much Feedstuff Lost in Blaze.

Forsyth, Ga., January 15.—(Special.)—The livery stable of George W. Tribble together with 24 head of horses and mules, a number of cows and hogs, several automobiles and a large quantity of feedstuff were burned shortly after 9 o'clock tonight. The loss will reach $7,500, with $1,500 insurance.

The stable adjoined the town hall and fire department, which were slightly damaged by heat. Several nearby residences and other buildings were threatened for a time, but the fact that a rain falling quenched the flying embers as they were carried through the air and probably saved property owners a heavy loss.

The stable building was a mass of flame when the fire alarm was sounded and there was no opportunity to save any of the stock. The origin of the fire is unknown.

NO AGREEMENT YET ON BRITAIN WAR DEBT

Conversations Halted While Delegates Ask London Instructions.

Washington, January 15.—A difference of view as to terms of settlement having been developed, conversations between the British and American commissions regarding the refunding of Great Britain's war debt to the United States were halted today while the British awaited instructions from London. The subject matter of these instructions is withheld, but it was learned from the highest official sources that the time of final payment and the interest rate have been canvassed thoroughly in an informal way.

The British expected to be ready to resume the negotiations tomorrow, but some of the participants appeared to be less confident that an agreement in principle would be reached before the departure of the London commission for home Saturday. Chairman Mellon of the American delegation was represented as being still hopeful of a tentative settlement, but was not predicting that one would be reached.

While suggestions thus far developed as to the time of the final payment on the debt of nearly five billions of dollars range from 50 to 60 years, as compared with the 25 years limitations fixed by congress, the question of the interest rate is believed the one on which the commissions are farthest apart.

While American officials declined to discuss the rates proposed, it was stated that the United States could not accept a figure as low as 3 percent. On the other hand it was declared that a graduated interest rate would be undesirable for a number of reasons.

As to the time of final settlement, the American delegation is understood to have proposed 50 years with the British suggesting the longer period.

In Europe an attempt has been made to introduce into commerce what may be termed solidified petroleum. Soda lye, fat and petroleum are heated together for an hour and give a soaplike product, which solidifies on cooling. Sawdust or other combustible may be mixed with the material, and it can be made into bricks for fuel. It would give a very smoke flame.

ARKANSANS EJECT ALLEGED STRIKERS

Place Eight Men Under Arrest on Charges of Arson—Grand Jury Called to Investigate.

Harrison, Ark., January 15.—Following announcement several weeks ago that they would resort to "armed action" unless deprecations ceased on the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad, several hundred citizens from towns along the reorganized line poured into Harrison today and forcibly ejected a number of alleged strikers, who quit their jobs on the railroad two years ago.

Action of citizens followed the wholesale burning of bridges on the M. and N. A. last week, starting Tuesday night when a bridge near Eureka Springs, Ark., 238 feet long, was destroyed.

Five other bridges had either been destroyed or badly damaged by Friday night, completely tying up the line between Leslie and Eureka Springs.

Eight alleged strikers are under arrest charged with arson, and a grand jury was called at Searcy to investigate the burnings.

A committee of armed citizens, sitting tonight, had several alleged strikers before them. No information was forthcoming from the meeting, but it is known that it is to do with the further ejection of former employees of the Missouri and North Arkansas.

One Man Is Killed.

Fort Smith, Ark., January 13.—One man was killed and two others were wounded at Harrison, Ark., today when members of a committee attempted to question E. C. Gregory, former employee of the Missouri and North Arkansas railway, relative to recent bridge fires on that road, according to a report received here tonight by the Southwest Arkansas.

Reduced Pay of Men.

Chicago, January 15.—The Missouri and North Arkansas railroad, involved in disorders at Harrison, Ark., where several hundred citizens are reported to have ejected alleged strikers, resumed operations about three months ago after suspending a labor dispute. The road attempted to reduce wages arbitrarily without consulting employees or the railroad labor board about two years ago and employees who were members of the 16 standard railroad unions were called out on strike after which the line suspended operations, a receiver taking it over.

Chiefs of the 16 standard unions, meeting in Chicago yesterday to consider the strike on this road and one of two years standing on the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic, voted to continue both strikes indefinitely.

REPARATIONS PLAN PUZZLES OFFICIALS

to believe, however, that officials are watching the course of the French operations with gravest concern and that official advice contains nothing that would furnish a more hopeful outlook than is given in press reports from Europe. It was stated that the government's dispatches tended to confirm the general picture given by newspaper correspondents.

Mr. Boyden said the American suggestion for a committee of experts to fix the amount of the indemnity would fit in with his plan which he will not make public until after its first discussion in the commission. In a general way, however, it may be said the plan provides for a moratorium of two or three years and certain measures, including a small loan for the stabilization of the mark.

The moratorium would suspend deliveries in kind as well as cash payments in order to give Germany time to establish her credit abroad.

Official word of the French determination to extend the occupation was carried to the state department early in the day from the French embassy. The embassy also made a positive declaration that only white French troops were being employed in the movements into Germany.

Story Puzzles Washington.

First word from Paris as to Mr. Boyden's statement created an impression that events were already shaping toward recourse by the French authorities to the Hughes proposal. A fuller report, however, coupled with the state department's disclaimer, left the situation as it had been in that respect unless it should be that the reparations commission on its own motion is planning a course calculated to restore Anglo-French harmony as to methods to be followed.

Even in such an event, the probability of which is discounted in the Paris dispatches, any severe clash between the French troops and the German civil population in the occupied areas might prevent any amicable arrangement. That such clashes are more probable with every increase of French forces of occupation goes without saying.

Governor "Hands Off" From Georgia Public Service Commission

According to an opinion expressed Monday, Governor Hardwick does not consider it a matter for his concern whether or not the Public Service Commission members put in an eight-hour day, or a six-day week, more or less.

When his attention was drawn to the resolution introduced by Commissioner Perry on January 2, providing for daily sessions and requiring all members to give their entire time to their duties, which resolution was defeated, and to an editorial carried in a south Georgia newspaper calling upon the governor to take a hand in the matter, he stated that he did not conceive it to be his duty to regulate the commissioner's office hours.

He said that if any commissioner, as well as the law in the premises, pointed out that the commissioner had taken an oath to perform their duties faithfully and conscientiously and felt that any commissioner should not live up to the oath it was to be presumed the people would find it out and remove him from office.

NEW GOVERNOR TELLS WHAT ALABAMA NEEDS

Oath of Office Administered to Governor Brandon in Montgomery.

Montgomery, Ala., January 15.—Standing on the same spot where Jefferson Davis stood more than three score years ago when he was inaugurated president of the Confederate States of America, W. W. Brandon was inaugurated governor of Alabama today, along with Lieutenant-Governor Charles S. McDowell, Jr.

The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice John C. Anderson, of the Alabama supreme court, shortly after noon, and was followed by the inaugural address of the new governor.

Governor Brandon, in his inaugural address summarized "what we want in Alabama" in ten pointed paragraphs:

"A relief from excessive taxation of the properties now on the tax books while others are exempted. By reducing taxes as far as possible on property now taxed and requiring exempted properties that should be taxed to bear their share.

"An educated citizenship with a seven months' school in every school district, and our university, colleges and normal schools open to every young man and woman in the state.

"By practicing economy in every department—abolishing useless offices, striking down duplications and cutting every unnecessary expense.

"A healthy people with proper health laws and protection from disease.

"A contented rural people with every advantage for school and market.

"The proper care of all wards of the state, including the wayward youth and those things that look after the welfare of the children.

"Good roads with a commission of three men who will begin a road program at once that will connect county sites.

"Rigid enforcement of law.

"The enabling act to build the port of Mobile.

"Harmony in our ranks, unity in Alabama, co-operation and not criticism, to the end that we may grow without oppression. We must develop and make happy the home life of our people."

UNUSUAL FEATURE

Variety of Vocal Numbers and Readings Will Be Offered at the Late Broadcast From WGM.

STAR SINGS TONIGHT

BLANCHE RING.

Tonight at 6 o'clock Station WGM's listeners will hear Blanche Ring, who is starting this week in the musical comedy, "As You Were," playing this week at the Atlanta Theatre. With Miss Ring at Station WGM will be Charles Winninger.

Mrs. Rose L. Matthews, WGM's exclusive dramatic soprano, whose wonderful voice has been heard in every nook and corner of the western continent, never sang more beautifully than she did on last night's program. Her favorite songs were given in her own incomparable manner and her rich, well trained voice lost none of its charm in speed through the ether to the ears of appreciative listeners scattered in the four corners of the continent.

Mrs. Matthews is a pupil of Signor Volpi of Atlanta, and one of America's most popular radio stars.

Mrs. Florence Cassidy, charming and brilliant pianist, gave the piano accompaniment for Mrs. Matthews in a highly pleasing and acceptable manner. In addition, Mrs. Cassidy played a number of old songs especially for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wilkinson, who were "listening in" in Grand Island, Neb., at the home of C. E. Grundy, one of WGM's nightly fans.

Mrs. Cassidy demonstrated her remarkable ability as a pianist and gave a most welcome announcement that she will be heard again at this station at an early date.

Frank Caldwell, banjoist, and F. R. Cort, steel guitar player at the WJAZ station of College Park, contributed much to last night's success with banjo and guitar selections.

These musicians are popular members of WJAZ's staff of artists and are talented and accomplished young men.

Long distance telephone call was received from J. S. Bell, of Richmond, Va., asking Mrs. Matthews to sing a special number. She complied with the request by singing "Mighty Lak a Rose." The following telegrams were received during the broadcast: "Your program coming fine. Thanks," Signed, "J. E. Kuttan, Decatur, Ill." The second one from R. D. Thippen, of Ocala, Ark., who said, "Enjoyed radio. Many thanks." In addition messages were received from Tifton, Dublin and other nearby points, and scores of telephone calls from Atlanta listeners.

Last night's late broadcast was unusually good and the expressions of appreciative listeners attested to the popularity of high-class programs by artists of recognized ability and talent.

The fruit was wonderful and greatly enjoyed by WGM's staff.

WGM FAN SENDS BOX FLORIDA FRUIT

Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, is greatly indebted to George H. Holliday, president of the Atlanta Dental Supply company, for a box of assorted Florida fruit, fresh from the famous Indian river section of Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Holliday are spending the winter at their winter home, located at Ansonia, on the Indian river, and are not expected to return to Atlanta before March 1.

The letter from Mr. and Mrs. Holliday stated they were enjoying WGM concerts "as well here as we did in Atlanta, and in appreciation of same we are sending you a box of Indian river oranges and grapefruit from our groves here."

The fruit was wonderful and greatly enjoyed by WGM's staff.

Miss Martha Crowe, Lyric Soprano, Heard on 6 to 7 O'clock Broadcast Last Night.

Miss Martha Crowe, charming and talented young lyric soprano singer, delighted fans of this nation last night with a number of beautifully rendered vocal solos. Miss DeMaie Castleberry, a popular young pianist, gave the piano accompaniments for Miss Crowe in a most acceptable manner.

The vocal numbers followed Warner's Seven Aces, the popular constitution orchestra playing from 6 to 6:30. Miss Crowe and Miss Castleberry were heard from 6:30 to 7 o'clock.

Miss Crowe has endeared herself to thousands of fans with her beautiful voice. It is one of unusual sweetness and beauty and her numbers are always popular and well received. Miss Castleberry's accompaniments contribute much to any program and fans heartily welcome the duo of well trained artists.

The vocal numbers on the early program included "At Duvring," "Mother," "O Sole Mio," "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses," and "Old Fashioned Garden."

The Aces will be heard from 6 to 6:30, and the mandolin club will follow from 6:30 to 7 o'clock.

BUILDING HEIGHT LIMITATIONS HIT

Building Conference Directors Would Have Tenants Share Taxes, "To Increase Interest in Good Government."

"The development of American cities and public welfare is being threatened by the movement in certain cities of the United States to unduly limit the height of office buildings," the board of directors of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers declared Monday in a resolution passed by the board, which is holding meetings in this city in connection with the meeting of the southern conference of building owners and managers.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

The answer to most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmura Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, contain no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A case is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmura Co., 4012 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tireless exercise and starvation diet or fear of bad effects—(adv.)

It does all the good work of granum's mustard plaster without the blister. Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite—colds of all sorts. Public Service Board to Hear Rome Gas Case

Consumers Demand Lower Rate, While Company Asks Large Increase.

Rome, Ga., January 15.—(Special.)—Three petitions will be heard Monday morning in this city by the Georgia Public Service commission, the members of which reached Rome this evening.

The first is the petition of the city of Rome, asking that because of inadequate and insufficient service the present rate of $1.65 net per thousand feet be reduced.

The second is the petition of the Rome Gas Consumers' league, which the commission provide that consumers pay their bills only in proportion to the service.

The third petition is of the Rome Municipal Gas company, for substantial raise in rates on the grounds that only by obtaining such raise can adequate service be given. Representing the city of Rome at the hearing will be City Attorney Max Meyer.

Representing the Gas Consumers' league will be Attorney James Maddox, and Attorney Walter C. Colquitt, of Atlanta, will represent the gas company.

Continuous and universal complaint has been made in regard to the gas service by consumers here, and a very large number of former consumers have had their meters removed either because they wished the service discontinued, or because they have refused to pay their gas bills, alleging that the service rendered was not commensurate with the amount of the bills.

The hearing will be held in the rooms of the city commissioner and it is expected that a great crowd will be present.

erated with the greatest regard for the safety and health of its occupants. Mr. Shultze stated and living conditions are probably much better than those which exist in the average home. Statistics covering the increase in street traffic as compared with the increase of high buildings show very conclusively that congestion is due only in a small measure to high buildings. Where congestion exists it can not be relieved by the reduction of building heights but only through improved transportation facilities.

The joint convention of the officers and directors of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers and the Southern Conference of Building Owners and Managers convened Monday to form plans for the national convention to be held in Atlanta City in June.

Uniform Contracts.

One of the features of the meeting will be an address by Gordon A. Ramsey, chairman of the United States bureau of contracts and adjustments, in which he will discuss proposed uniform contract for federal building leases, which the association is seeking to create.

Mr. Shultze acted as chairman Monday. He will deliver address Tuesday before the southern conference on the subject of "Scientific Handling of Association Rental Problems."

Visitors to the southern conference were welcomed Monday by President E. M. Horine, of Atlanta; Fred Schaefer, secretary, Atlanta; and C. F. Palmer, of Atlanta.

Atlanta-Denver Population Race Challenge Taken

Cities Will Compete to See Which Reaches 500,000 Mark First.

Denver's challenge to Atlanta to beat the Colorado city to the half million mark in population by 1930 was formally accepted on behalf of Atlanta Monday night by Alfred C. Newell, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Newell accepted the challenge at a dinner tendered by the Atlanta real estate board to a delegation from the Denver real estate board, which stopped here for several hours en route to the national realtors' convention in Knoxville.

Oliver T. McIntosh, of Denver, issued the formal challenge, and read to the Atlantans the following telegram he had just received from M. Elliott Houston, president of the Denver board:

"No Deaths in Denver."

"The Mile High city sends greetings to the metropolis of Dixie. Denver is on its way to 500,000 population in 1930. Ninety-nine times out of ten, Denver will reach the 500,000 mark first, 500,000 since January 1. No deaths. Advise Atlanta we are out to win. Her scalp will soon dangle from our belt."

CLEANER STREETS IS WOMEN'S GOAL

Woman's Division of the Chamber of Commerce Will Take Up "Housekeeping End" of City Improvement.

Listed first among the things to be accomplished by the business women's division of the chamber of commerce for the year 1923 is getting Atlanta's streets in a more cleanly and sanitary condition, according to Miss Mabel Kendrick, chairman of the division, in announcing its plans Monday.

"The business women's division of the chamber of commerce desires to work with the city government and all civic organizations interested in seeing Atlanta's streets cleaner," said Miss Kendrick.

"Most of the adverse criticism our city receives today is against her dirty streets, and we want to remedy this. We do not propose to offer off hand a remedy, but we do say that if cities like New York, Washington, city, Indianapolis and other cities many times the size of Atlanta can maintain their streets in the cleanly manner they do, Atlanta can do the same. We do not undertake to say where the trouble lies. What we hope to do is to make a study of the situation as it is today and concentrate our energies on the 'housekeeping end' of Atlanta's needs and see if we cannot find a remedy. We invite the help of every woman and man in the city."

"Of course, we expect to co-operate with the junior chamber in their campaign for abatement of the smoke nuisance, and with the senior chamber in their campaign for the new year, but our first concern is to get our streets clean."

Miss Kendrick said the business women's division was considering several big undertakings for the year, which would be announced just as soon as plans for the new year are complete.

Proceeds from the Colorado Pageant of Progress, to be staged in Denver July 16-31, will be used in advertising the city, the visiting realtors said.

ADEQUATE ADVANCE FLEET BASE ASKED

Proposed Shore Projects for Navy Submerged by Denby.

Washington, January 15.—Development of an adequate advance fleet base on Cuba, Hawaiian islands, is given first priority among shore projects for the navy in the report of the board headed by Rear-Admiral Rodman, assigned by Secretary Denby to recommend a shore establishment policy.

The main fleet base in San Francisco bay is placed next by the report, the project to include the Alameda development as "imperative," developments of similar bases at Puget Sound, New York-Narragansett bay and Chesapeake bay to come next in order, and the advance base in the canal zone to follow these.

The report was sent to congress today by Mr. Denby. It recommends abandonment of numerous minor naval sites but no navy yard or station appears on this list. The board recommended, however, an order of importance from a strategic standpoint under which the yards and stations should be reduced as economy might require.

Ideal conditions as to fleet bases, the report said, would be the maintenance of two adequate establishments each on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts with advance bases in the canal zone and the Hawaiian islands.

The board recommends that three naval training stations be developed to concentrate training activities. San Diego is selected for the Pacific station and Newport, R. I., for the Atlantic. The Great Lakes station is now functioning for that region.

All existing hospitals and ammunition depots are necessary, the board held.

Aside from the transfer of ten radio compass stations in the Alaska region to some other branch of the government, the board recommended abandonment of the Cape May, Baltimore, Mobile, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Grand Isle, La.; Port Arthur, Texas; Seattle, Wash. (when navy yard takes over), Navassa, West Indies, and Managua, Nicaragua (when commercial planes ready), stations.

Air stations at Hampton Roads, Hawaiian islands, San Diego, canal zone, Alaska region and eastern West Indies should ultimately be completely developed, the board held. The order for reducing of air stations under pressure of economy is given as follows: Chatham, Mass.; Cape May, N. J.; Rockaway, Anacostia, D. C.; Pensacola, Fla.; Hampton Roads, Va.; San Diego, Cal.; Lakehurst, N. J.; Pearl Harbor, T. H.; Coco Solo, canal zone.

"BUY TAGS EARLY," M'Lendon Asks of Auto Owners

An appeal to the 130,000 motor vehicle owners of Georgia to obtain 1923 application blanks for license tags as soon as possible was made Monday by Secretary of State S. G. McLeod, who stated that only a limited time remained for registering motor vehicles according to the state law.

All applications must be in by March 1, Secretary McLeod declared, and to date only a few hundred have been received. To avoid a last minute rush the secretary requested that attention be given to this matter at once. Even this early the office of secretary of state will have to register motor vehicles at the rate of 4,000 per day in order to have all machines licensed by March 1.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery which would act directly on the inflamed membranes and kill the germs.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the most potent healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(adv.)

"RIFFRAFF" ALIENS!

On this page will be found a most remarkable communication from an Italian citizen of Atlanta.

Replying to a recent communication, he takes umbrage, and not unreasonably so, at the expression
"riffraff of southern Europe," referring to the tide of foreign immigration.

As "southern Europe," in the popular acceptance of the phrase, refers specifically to Italy, the correspondent resents the thought that he believes the first correspondent had in mind that the "riffraff" among the aliens in this country are wholly Italians.

Of course Mr. Cave, the author of the communication to which this Italian citizen of Atlanta replies,
probably had no such thing in mind,
but meant broadly the undesirable
classes from all overseas countries.

But the communication of this Italian citizen is remarkable for the force of expression, and for the spirit of universal brotherhood that it breathes. It is a lesson in moral uplift, in ideal citizenship and in the assimilation of citizen-patriotism,
whether native born or foreign born,
that is refreshing.

To be sure there are "riffraff" in this country from Italy, and from every other country on the face of the globe; and by the same token there are many of the most progressive, patriotic, law-abiding, community-building citizens of the country who were born in Italy, just as there are good American citizens who were born in all other nations of the world.

There are "riffraff" among the American-born—among the Puritan stock of the Anglo-Saxon. There is no disputing that fact. Every nation has its good, and its bad.

The point is well taken that this country does not want to become the dumping ground for the off-scouring of creation, the anarchists and the moral lepers. Already far too great a number of this element has been turned into the American ports, and it has been because of the contaminating influences they have attempted that has stiffened public opinion against unrestricted immigration.

There is no question of the wisdom of raising the present bars against immigration, here and there, under a strict process of sifting the bad from the good and accepting only the good.

The present laws should be amended so that the quota possible from one country could be increased to meet the deficiency from another.
But in all such cases the basic principle is every alien entering this country should be examined by an American agent at the port of embarkation and authorized under a restrictive law; and then the number should be limited, as a whole, to the provisions of our existing laws.

The Turks that wouldn't be pushed off the map are now demanding the earth it represents.

The boys called home from "Over There" have registered an early kick against taking the Volstead water cure.

"Wild-eyed, woolly and bloodthirsty reformers that we are," confesses Editor George Bailey, "we are unable to escape the conviction that 90 per cent of reform is bunk and about 95 per cent of us reformers are nuts."

SWINGING TO NORMAL.

The officials of the Citizens and Southern bank issued from Savannah Saturday a review of business conditions in Georgia that encourage a conviction that the year 1923 will swing the business pendulum far toward the normal plumb.

The statement, however, is of keener concrete interest in that it recites instances of financial recuperation in south Georgia in particular that have actual news value of wide significance.

Says the statement in part:

"When the farmers of this state are prosperous all other lines of industry enjoy good business. From the best information obtainable
during the year 1922, the farmers of Georgia produced commodities valued at more than $200,000,000 in excess of produce consumed by them in the production of same,
and they, of course, used much of this excess in liquidating their indebtedness of the two preceding years, when their showing was quite unfavorable. As an illustration of this condition at this time last year, two banks in a town in south Georgia owed the Citizens and Southern bank over $100,000 each and not only could they not pay their indebtedness at that time but it was necessary for them to have assistance in caring for the requirements of their customers
during the producing period of 1922. At this time, the two banks have paid all they owed and one of them has been in the market for commercial paper as a temporary investment, or course every section of the state is not experiencing quite the same degree of liquidation as south Georgia. A portion of northeast Georgia is an example:
the boll weevil made its first appearance there in 1922, and the farmers made little effort to produce crops of cotton or any other kind of product. This will be, of course, overcome, as is shown by the experience of states west of Georgia in that cotton can be produced in satisfactory quantity under boll weevil conditions, and we believe that conditions will be more nearly normal during the year 1923."

The story of the two banks referred to, having liquidated indebtedness of $100,000 each by reason of their own satisfactory collections, is the story of all the larger banks of the state that re-discount the paper of country banks. Liquidation has been general throughout Georgia and most of the north Georgia counties are in infinitely better shape than they were a year ago, even though some of them had their first experiences with the weevil in 1922.

On the whole the situation looks encouraging. The one danger that threatens is heavily increased cotton acreage. The staple can only be grown successfully under boll weevil conditions by intensive cultivation, which means five to ten acres to the plow.

All banks should adhere rigidly to the policy that cotton farmers who seek financial help must observe the rules of reason and common sense in planting and cultivation, and must raise their feed and food crops.

HEADLIGHT MENACE.

Scarcely a day passes that the Atlanta newspapers do not record
some distressing automobile accident, perhaps with its toll of life, caused by the blinding headlights of an approaching car.

Reckless driving, produced either by daring, indifference, fool-hardiness, or by the unsteadiness of a drunk-crazed mind, causes more death and sorrow than the ravages of war—and in that category there is no one more "reckless," and less thoughtful of the security of the road and the safety of others, than the driver who dashes his car along the busy highway at night with his own car's headlights blinding every approaching driver. It shows an utter disregard for the welfare of others that is sordid and repulsive.

There are laws against this. There are laws that demand the "dimming"
of the headlights when approaching or meeting cars on darkened highways. And such laws ought to be enforced rigidly and vigorously, and if too weak, as they are, they should be strengthened at the forthcoming assembly.

It is distressing when one takes into serious account the number of fatal accidents—as for instance the killing of Miss Guber on the Marietta road last week—that are caused by this one act of indifference or thoughtlessness on the part of approaching drivers at night.

Law or no law, let the public conscience contemplate the seriousness of this matter; and then let every driver of a car on the darkened roads at night dim his car's headlights when meeting another car, drive slowly and with care, or stop altogether for the moment, if that seems the safer.

If all will practice this there will be no further accidents from this source at least.

The way, with some of the brethren is to break the New Year resolutions in sections—on the long installment plan.

France is determined that Germany shall pay the price—one way or another.

After all, it seems that Europe is merely war-hungry.

Winter Winds.

I.
The winter winds
are blowing
An' the woods are bare to see,
But I don't object to winter
If the fire burns
bright for me.

II.
If the light shines
in homeward
Then the heart
beats joyfully
For I know, by one glad heartbeat
There someone waits for me.

III.
Do you think of icy meadows—
Of the lost and lonely night—
When you know the shadows
The home-fire's burning bright?

IV.
Ah, the winter is not dreary
When the love-lights come in view—
When you know one heart that loves you
By the hearthside waits for you.

Last of Tourist Printers.

The Howell County (Missouri)
Gazette has this interesting item of a visit from "Brooklyn Joe," tourist printer.

Plains was visited recently by Brooklyn Joe, known all over the United States as the last of the tourist printers. Brooklyn Joe was working in New York when the fire type machine was manufactured. For thirty years Brooklyn Joe has traveled from coast to coast, seeing thousands of these typesetting machines.
Long years ago, scarcely a week passed that some tourist printer didn't come along who wanted to throw in a case of type, set up a column of type, and take a dollar, a feed and a bed, and then drifted onward. Most of them are gone now. There was the immortal J. N. Red Doolittle. This Joe was so thin, and Fussy Reynolds, Brooklyn Joe was looking for a winter berth and went from fire to fire Mountain View, where he has a situation with the Booster."

De fireman in de Sun
Says "My work is never done,
Springtime, summertime an' fall;
When coal is gittin' higher
I'm a-keepin' up de fire—
Keepin' up de fire for you all!"

"But still I hears you growlin'
When de blizzard ain't a-howlin'
An' sayin' dat yo' chance is mighty small
You sho'ly is forgettin'
Dat I'm all de time a-sweatin'—
Keepin' up de fire for you all!"

Brother Williams' Philosophy.

This rhyme of the faithful old library friends is from Paul Cook,
of The Birmingham Age-Herald:

"The books I thumbed in days gone

The books I thumbed in days gone

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
(Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution)

THE IMPERIAL HEART.

An individual who has heart disease is likely to succumb, finally, to some other disease. For the greater part, the popular notion that heart disease brings swift death without warning is based upon the fine old custom of untrained "coroners" who used to declare a man dead if he died before they had discovered no indications that he had been poisoned or killed.

In large share of all cases of valvular disease, "leakage" as it is popularly called, the distortion of the heart valve is an insidious process of which the victim is unaware. It occurs in the course of, or shortly after, some common illness, as tonsillitis and ordinary sore throat for which the sufferer may not even remain in bed. The germs responsible for the throat condition, or the strain or type called streptococci or perhaps pneumo-cocci, find their way to the lining of the heart and lodge upon one of the valves, setting up an inflammatory reaction. The inflamed reaction is called endocarditis (inflammation of heart lining). It may produce such slight symptoms or signs that the patient may not be alarmed. The physician is alert, but the scar following the inflammation distorts the delicate heart valve
so that it does not close as perfectly as it formerly did and from that time there is more or less backflow of blood with each heart beat. The heart, therefore, must do greater work constantly, in order to maintain the circulation. The heart must pump enough blood to compensate for the backflow or "leakage."
The heart must therefore enlarge, develop greater muscular power, to accomplish this heavier work, if the individual is to do the same amount of work or play he formerly did.

Now there are many other things besides the heart damage that may pair the heart. The heart muscle is sometimes damaged by reason of a faulty blood supply to the muscle itself, or by poisons in the blood supply, such as alcohol, diphtheria toxin, pneumonia toxin, so that the valves are all clear enough, no carbon accumulation or anything, but the congestion is weak.

Again, the heart muscle may be enlarged and highly developed, as by athletic training, an often hardly injured by excessive strain, as in the immature youth who attempts to "train" all in a few short weeks for such a severe test as a football game or a marathon race, and a kind of sudden stretching or giving of the heart muscle occurs (doctors call this dilatation of the heart). From such an injury the victim recovers slowly if at all. Often he carries a handicap

Just In Passing!

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

Secretary Weeks, who used to be a congressional colleague, gave a dinner
a few evenings ago complimentary to "Uncle Joe" Cannon, who will, at more than four score and five, voluntarily retire from a half-century in congress on the 4th of March.

Gathered at the Weeks residence were about a dozen of the old-timers in the house—Secretary Denby, Associate Justice Sutherland, Senators Watson and Curtis, former Representative John Dwight and others.

There was talk of the days of "Cannonism" and a wealth of highly entertaining reminiscence.

One of Senator Watson's most apt descriptions of talking to a man who offers little information in reply was by him to describe the barren results of a conference he had with a prominent official.

The senator was requested to seek an expression of the other's views—a diplomat—on some matter in which there was sharp division of opinion
among republican senators.

He did so. The interview lasted for almost an hour.

Mr. Watson returned to the capitol.
Senators sought to learn what information he had obtained. He replied he had none.

He said he had been obliged to do most of the talking himself. The other had communicated little, if anything.

"It was precisely like talking down
a rain barrel," he said. "All I got back was the sound of my own voice."

"Uncle Joe" is without a peer in story-telling, but his most characteristic "come-back" at a newspaper man is replying to a direct query with an illustration—usually a witty one at that.

I recall election day in 1916.

We gathered at the National Press club in Washington early in the afternoon to get the scattering flashes that might come in from the country.

Uncle Joe was there—as usual!

"How is the election going, Uncle Joe?" I inquired rather indifferently.

"Listen here," he snapped.

"When I was a prosecuting attorney in Illinois, just after the war, a negro, who had drifted into the middle west from North Carolina after the surrender, was on the docket for stealing a horse.

"That was a very serious offense,
and he and I both being natives of the same state, I thought I would give him the benefit of every doubt."

"Wanting to satisfy myself as to whether he was really guilty or not I called him off on one side, just as the case had been called—

"Jerry," said I, "did you really steal that horse?"

"His eyes flashed, and his big, red lips spread out like an alligator's mouth—

"Boss, I calculate this here trial is being held for to find out that very thing."

And Uncle Joe tilted his cigar to a sharper angle with his nose, and called to the operator at the private wire—

"Anything from Illinois yet?"

It was a sad day in the senate—
for Heflin, of Alabama, at least—when the annual appropriation for "free seeds" was stricken from the bill, and this service of electioneering through the "back yard garden" at the expense of the taxpayers cut off for the first time in many years.

Almost in tears—so the Washington dispatches say—the Alabama pleaded, in pathos of tone with voice trembling—

"Confer this item for seed distribution and gardens will spring up as if by magic and choice green vegetables basking in the sun and reveling in the rain will rise up to call you blessed. And when the tables groins with a variety of the fruits of the garden and the faces about such a festive board are beaming with smiles, all will gratefully remember."

But the world patiently awaited nothing, for the item was lost, lost, lost!

And after all it is better. It is an enormous expense, running up to nearly a half billion a year, and no one really gets any tangible benefit from it.

The seeds sent out are usually of an inferior variety, not acclimated, and wholly out of place. There are some exceptions, not counting the costs to the government, met by taxation, the actual, constructive benefits are not worth the price.

The establishment of the first American embassy in Cuba with Major-General Enoch H. Crowder as the first ambassador is virtually assured by the passage of the bill making such provision.

The house amendment to adjust the general's pay as a retired soldier an active civilian will doubtless meet with the senate's approval.

General Crowder's long service on a special mission in Cuba has demonstrated the importance of closer American attention to Cuban government than had been accorded in the past, and has demonstrated also General Crowder's pre-eminent fitness for giving it.

One of the efforts of the house at this session, after disposing of the appropriation bills, the Winslow bill for the restoration of alien property,
the Green bill for restriction of issue
of tax-exempt securities, and the bill for the registration of aliens, will be to produce a condition resembling ord' out of the confusion now existing in the air—

To do away, as it were, with the radio traffic jam, which has proved an annoyance to all listeners and a menace to efficiency of government operation.

The purpose of the pending bill in brief is to establish order in the air,
to bring the departments of the government to an agreement, and to provide for the most efficient possible use of the radio for commercial and private purposes by requiring all to observe uniform rules and regulations.

Secretary Hoover has taken a deep personal interest in the problem and his assistance has been given to the committee in working out a solution which shall give added impetus to the development of the new science.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. MINTYRE

New York, January 15.—A tricky little isle—this narrow strip upon which Manhattan rests. Even a cleverest invitation may contain a trap. Mark to this true yarn of apparent hospitality that was peddled
by a former screen—or is it screen?—
star.

She used to ride the bronchos with verve and dash in the early days of filmdom. Came a day, as the title writers blurb of double chins and drooping eyelids left her "flat on the lot." But she had saved enough to give merry parties to friends.

Then inevitable lean days—and the skid from a Drive apartment to an attic room near Sheridan square. The other work of her old friends were prized with engraved invitations to a midnight party at a supper club.

The honor guest was a reigning film star who was sailing for Europe.
The crowd came. There was a big band of jazzers, plenty of cocktails, highballs and a well-served dinner.

Of course the guests whispered their surprise at the sudden ban on ever-so long as the monetary evidence was there they cared little. They drank, ate and were extremely merry until the first milk curd rumbled down Broadway.

Miss Fixit circled among them. She was called upon for a speech and toasted her return to the fleshpots of the city. "This is all I have to say to the departing guest of honor,"
It was some party.

But at length the gloom descended.
Back to the attic room, the waters left a check. The dinner was over, and for which the guests must pay. The drinks were extra. All paid.

The next day it was learned that the guest who gave the party had been employed as hostess at the supper club where the dinner was held. One thing is certain—her first night guests
will not be patrons.

In the quiet damask-walled office of the Metropolitan opera house there sits a highly organized personality

throughout life—the heart remains impaired.

An impaired heart does not manifest itself by pain or by palpitation, as a rule. The victim rather finds himself physically fit. He is all the more enjoyed as hostess at the supper
club where the dinner was held. One thing is certain—her first night guests
will not be patrons.

Well! Well! A new idea at last!
The roaring Forties. An exact duplicate of the old-time saloon has opened. It is a little cabaret place—intimate and exclusive. The bartenders are of the familiar type of the golden days, with rosy cheeks and bristling mustaches. They mix only soft drinks, but at odd times form themselves into a quartet and sing the old ballads.
The mirror is wiped and the
"bouncer" is on the job.

ENGINEER AT GRADY

PASSES SUDDENLY

Shelby P. Lusk, of 27 High street, who for two years has been employed as engineer at the Grady hospital, died Monday morning in his room at the hospital. It is believed that death was due to apoplexy.

When Mr. Lusk failed to report for work as usual Monday morning, an investigation was made and he was found lying in his bed, where he had fallen when seized with a convulsion, it is thought.

Mr. Lusk is survived by his wife and two brothers, O. C. Lusk, of Detroit, and W. C. Lusk, of East Gloucester, Ohio. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Barclay & Brandon.

Wright Recovers.

Comptroller General William A.
Wright was back at his desk in the capitol on Monday, fully recovered from a case of influenza which attacked him during the Christmas holidays, while visiting at the home of his daughter in North Carolina.

POSTAL RECEIVING

Number of Invitations

Accepted Indicate Success for Mission of Postmaster-General.

Judging from the number who have already accepted invitations to the postal conference convention to be held in Atlanta Saturday, this meeting will bring together over 2, 000 postal officials and employees, it was announced by Postmaster E. K.
Largo Monday.

"Fourteen hundred out-of-town officials have already replied to invitations," said Mr. Largo, "and the attendance will be brought up several hundred through local officials and employees who will be present."

We are working to make the convention a success, both from the point of actual number attending and in accomplishing the objects of Postmaster General Work's visit. While here he expects to meet all officials and employees possible, and also make personal contact with the prominent business men and large mailers, with the view of getting ideas relative to improvements in the postal service."

A reception is to be held at the Ansley hotel following the general business session Saturday, and at this reception the big business men of the city who are heavy users of the mails will meet Postmaster General Work informally for discussing the postal service.

General Work will make the acquaintance of the officials and employees immediately following the formal business session.

Nominate Yourself or Some Friend In The Constitution's

$25,000.00 HELP YOURSELF CLUB

BOTH MEN AND WOMEN ARE ELIGIBLE.

It costs nothing to enter and share in the wonderful array of awards. You can win the Packard Twin-Six, the Franklin sedan, the Hudson coach or one of the other eight fine automobiles. Probably you could use one of these cash awards.

These cars will be won by votes and votes are given on subscription payments from old and new subscribers. This is not a luck lay out or popularity campaign. It's business---the reward for persistence and systematic effort. Cash commissions if not one of the listed prizes.

THE PRIZES

How They Will Be Awarded

The following three automobiles, the Twin-Six Packard, with de luxe equipment; the Franklin, new model four-door sedan, and the Hudson coach, will be known as the three capital awards. They will be awarded to the three people in the entire campaign, regardless of district, having the greatest number of votes at the close of the campaign.

There are eight other automobiles, the Essex, Hupmobile, Studebaker Light Six, Buick Six, Nash Six, Chevrolet four-door sedan, Maxwell sport touring model, and the Willys-Knight. These cars will be given to the eight highest contestants, one in each district, after the capital award winners have been eliminated.

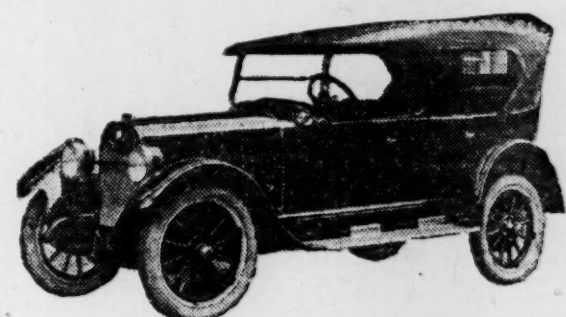

Club member can win but one of the regular listed awards. The one having the greatest number of votes having their first choice, etc.

There are eight districts, and in each district there are three cash awards to the amount of $250, $150 and $100, making a total of $4,000 in cash as district awards. These awards will be given to the three people in each district according to the order in which they stand after the district automobile winners have been decided. There are no losers in this campaign, as every one will be paid a cash commission of 10 per cent on all money they turn in, provided they turn in $50 or more, and do not win one of the regular listed awards.

The least you can do is to receive 10 per cent cash commission. The most you can do is to exert yourself into that big $4,429 Twin-Six Packard, one of the other ten automobiles, or one of the 24 cash awards. The territory has been divided into eight districts and a complete set of prizes must go in each district. Again it need not interfere with your work, it does not require any specified time, you can speak to your friends about your candidacy whenever or wherever you meet them. The persons who are going to be the winners of these prizes will probably decide the issue TODAY---because it is the "early bird that catches the worm." This is a marvelous opportunity to start early---and EARLY means today---NOW. Fill out the nominating blank and send it to the Club Manager of The Constitution. You will then have made a start on the road that leads to success. Keep your mind on the prize you want and you will be hard to beat.

Mrs. Cator Woolford Honors Miss Haverty at Bridge

Mrs. Cator Woolford, complimented Miss Dorothy Haverty, whose marriage will take place Thursday, with a bridge tea Monday afternoon at her home on Lullwater road, in Druid Hills.

The lovely home was decorated with white flowers, significant of the compliment to the bride-elect. In the dining room white calla lilies were placed in the center of the tea table, which was covered with a lace cloth. White roses, sweetpeas and narcissi encircled the lilies and white candles in silver holders were placed at intervals about the table. The score cards showed white wedding brides.

The first prize, a lovely Japanese print, was won by Mrs. Norman Cooledge, Miss Haverty was present, and a beautiful box of Japanese cloisonne.

Mrs. Woolford's lovely gown in which she received her guests was of black satin with a bodice of king's blue crepe embroidered with many beads.

Miss Haverty wore black panne velvet with fur trimmings and a small and becoming hat which was close-fitting and made of black velvet with fur tips. She wore a handsome corsage bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. James Laviere Is Honored At Beautiful Jacksonville Tea

The Jacksonville Times-Union has the following interesting account of the very beautiful afternoon tea given in Jacksonville, Fla., for Mrs. James LaViere, of Atlanta, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Charles M. Cooper, in that city.

The Times-Union says: Mrs. Charles M. Cooper entertained at a beautiful 5 o'clock tea yesterday afternoon in her home on East Duval street, complimenting her daughters, Mrs. James LaViere, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Rosalie Cooper Gross.

The affair was elaborate in detail, and perfect in all its appointments, the rooms of the lower floor of the residence being exquisitely decorated with palms, ferns and a profusion of roses and narcissi.

The drawing room was done in green and pink, roses and narcissi being effectively combined, and receiving here were the hostess and guests of honor.

Mrs. Cooper wore a handsome gown of purple velvet, trimmed in purple net, embroidered in rhinestones.

Mrs. LaViere was attired in a gown of dark blue georgette crepe, beaded in cut steel, with girdle of silver cloth.

Mrs. Gross wore a becoming gown of red georgette, beaded in crystal, and fashioned with side draperies, which fell below the hem of her skirt.

In the music room an orchestra furnished a program of music throughout the tea hour. The decorations here were tropical palms and ferns.

In the dining room, the decorations were most artistic. The dining table was laid with a lace cloth, and centered with a low arrangement of red roses, intermingled with narcissi. Around this were small vases filled with the same flowers. Lighted red tapers in silver holders likewise adorned the table. The mints and individual cakes were in white, ornamented with red flowers and green leaves.

Pouring tea and coffee at intervals were Mrs. John C. Cooper, Mrs. Thomas Stockton, Mrs. Blair Burwell, Sr., Mrs. J. R. Parrott, Mrs. Telfair Stockton, Mrs. Amanda Barrs, Mrs. Thomas P. Denham, Mrs. Van Winder Shields and Mrs. C. E. Garner.

Presiding at the punch-bowl, in the library, were Mrs. Victor Covington, Mrs. James W. Spratt, Mrs. John L. Doggett, Miss Lilla White, Mrs. Joseph E. Bryan, Mrs. C. S. Adams, Mrs. Louis Z. Baya, and Mrs. James F. Lane.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Charles P. Cooper, Mrs. James Cooper, Mrs. Charles Edward Pelot, Mrs. William A. Hallows, Jr., Mrs. C. Seton Fleming, Mrs. Marie Lasseter Kolmer, Miss Helen Barnes, Mrs. John C. Cooper, Jr., Mrs. Robert Key, Mrs. Reiman MacDonell, Miss Elise Barnes, Miss Rosa Coniff, Miss Delia Meigs, Mrs. James Buchanan Parramore and Mrs. J. C. Reynolds.

The affair was one of the beautiful afternoon functions of the winter season, and about three hundred and fifty friends of the hostess and guests of honor were invited, a large number calling during the tea hour.

Mrs. Oslin Honors Executive Board.

Mrs. L. L. Oslin was hostess at a delightful luncheon Saturday at her home on Grant street in honor of the executive board of the Baron DeKalb chapter, D. A. R.

The rooms, where the guests were received, were decorated with cut flowers in artistic arrangement. The beautifully appointed luncheon table had as a central decoration a cluster of narcissi.

Mrs. Oslin wore a gown of henna crepe de chine.

The guests included Mrs. A. L. Wade, Mrs. V. A. S. Moore, Mrs. Dana Burgess, Mrs. Mark Lively, Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Mrs. Oscar Williamson and Miss Lilla Jernigan.

Russia Comes Across in a Blaze of Color

—The Olympic brought them to New York a few days ago. They came from the Moscow Art Theatre and brought with them a play that is reminiscent of Russia as she was in the days of the Czars.

—These sad-eyed players of today's Russia wrap themselves in the tremendous color of yesterday's Russia and prove that, however sad the heart, one's apparel must show no shadows. They teach us, too, that it matters not how many conflicting colors are used together—if they are used in the right way—as small, vivid parts of a great dazzling pattern.

East or West of Suez

—Color, color, color! Gorgeous brocades, jeweled ornaments, metallic laces, vigorous embroideries, smocks, peasant sleeves—they're just as the great Bakst said they would be and Rich's Fashion Rooms, Fabric Shops and Ornament Shops agree heartily, realizing that nowhere east or west of Suez is a woman too timid to adopt daring colors for Spring.

The "Paletot" $59.50

—Its new name is "Paletot"—the short, smart jacket so dearly loved and effectively worn by Parisians—and already the greatest fashion success on Fifth Avenue. It is made in many styles, of many materials, in many colors. In Rich's Fashion Rooms the Paletot is the center of feminine interest. The prices range from $59.50 to $97.50.

New Skirts, $19.75

—The skirts that are most congenial with the Paletot are made of an imported woolen—preferably ratine or homespun. One of the new skirts, not to be outdone by the new jackets, has a new name, too. It is called the "Worumbo" skirt, though by any other name it would, of course, be quite as smart. Skirts are priced from $19.75 to $29.75.

Paris Buried Under Gay 'Kerchiefs

—Paris, we are told, is at present buried under an avalanche of gay 'kerchiefs. Every shop window is crowded with them. They vary in size from the tiny "mouchoir," which slips through the bracelet, to a great shawl-like affair more than a yard square.

—Jenny is doing some very interesting things with them—using them for belts and collars, and even tying them about the wrist of the sleeves of one of her gowns to form unusual shapes and extremely decorative cuffs.

—It's the gayest whim of the mode—and Rich's brought the first bandanas to Atlanta. They are priced $4.50. The Bandana Radium, regularly priced $3.50, is offered for $2.49 a yard in the January Silk Sale.

Distinguished Visitor Talks On State Music Clubs

BY BESSIE SHAW STAFFORD.

Mrs. Frederick E. Vaisiere, of Rome, president of the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs, is among the distinguished visitors in Atlanta this week, as the guest of Miss Nan Stephens, at her home on Briarcliff road, in Druid Hills. She is a very brilliant woman, an organist and composer. When interviewed concerning her plans for the Georgia state convention which meets in Savannah, on March 13, 14 and 15, she replied: "The junior and state contests will be two of the most important features, the latter open to artists who are ready for the concert stage, the winners to go to the South Atlantic convention, also held in Savannah, on March 16, 17 and 18, and includes the states of South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Noble Harder, of Savannah, is chairman of the contest committee. All junior clubs affiliated with the state federation will be heard in voice, piano, violin and composition in the junior contest," stated Mrs. Vaisiere.

"There will also be a composers' evening, and, of course, the social affairs are planned by Savannah club members."

"The contest winners announced from the South Atlantic district," continued Mrs. Vaisiere, "will then compete for the national contest, the convention to be held in Asheville, N. C. from June 9 to 17, inclusive, which is held every two years by the National Federation of Music Clubs. This is to be the greatest and most brilliant music festival ever planned in America, and all artists are to be Americans and will perform American works. Noble Harder, of Savannah, is state chairman of the contest committee."

Special trains from every part of the country will bring artists and members to this great event.

Standardizing Music.

"The greatest aim of the state federation at present is to standardize music in the public schools, and toward that purpose we are co-operating with the Southeastern Supervisors' association which recently convened in Atlanta," said Mrs. Vaisiere. "If we can place music in the schools, credits will be given in any other study included in the curriculum. Even though the pupil is taught music through a private teacher not connected with the school, she will receive credits. This plan would standardize music. If we expect music to mean anything to Georgia it must necessarily come through the children. The charm that music hath for children has been clearly demonstrated in the Junior Music club, which was organized in Atlanta by Miss Nan Stephens, and it is of the greatest importance that the little ones begin music in their early childhood."

"We are also seeking to form a students' fund in the club program wherein talented musicians can borrow money at a very moderate rate in order to further advance their education. A beginning has been made and there have been several donations. Georgia is the first state in the southeastern district to organize such a bureau. The South Atlantic district was formed at the biennial held at MacDowell colony, at Peterboro, N. H., in 1919."

In conclusion, Mrs. Vaisiere said: "I am so proud to state that this district, with Miss Stephens as president, is regarded as the banner one of the country, and to Georgia goes the honor of being the banner state."

L. P. Wilson to Talk On World's Women To Y. W. C. A. Club

"Woman's Part in World Affairs" will be told by L. P. Wilson, manager of advertising for Davison-Paxon-Stokes company, to the Y. W. C. A. Business Woman's club, at their meeting this evening at the Y. W. C. A., Peachtree Arcade, at 6:30 o'clock.

The business women have invited the Y. W. C. A. Business Woman's league and any other interested in hearing Mr. Wilson to be present this evening.

Wilmer Moore, Jr., Honors Miss Scott.

Wilmer Moore, Jr., entertained the members of the Johnson-Moore bridal party Monday evening at the Atlanta theater, in compliment to Miss Caroline Scott, of Lexington, Ky., who is the guest of Miss Adelia Johnson, on East Fourteenth street.

Miss Scott wore a gown of black chiffon velvet.

Miss Johnson was gowned in French blue crepe, embroidered in gold.

After the performance Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Moore, Sr., entertained the party at supper at their home on West Eleventh street.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Hard Boiled Eggs.
Leave the shells on hard-boiled eggs until you are ready to use them. They keep much better in the shell.

Stained Sink.
Make a solution of three table-spoonsful of oxalic acid and two quarts of water. Stop up the sink and let this mixture stand in it for one hour. Then drain and rinse with cold water. Every stain will be removed.

A Once-a-Week Lunch.
Vegetable soup is just about par excellence for the kiddie's lunch. Children will eat vegetables in a savory soup when it is difficult to get them to eat the same things served by themselves. They are also getting the nutrition of the beef without the effort of digesting it.

Careful Ironing.
When the dress has a number of ruffles, iron the upper ones first so they may be turned back. It is wise to remove the dress from the board after the ruffles are ironed and to turn it around so the body of the dress is ready to be ironed and the top of the dress is ready to be ironed.

MEDIUM BROWN HAIR looks best of all after a Golden Glist Shampoo. (adv.)

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna E. Forbes

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Cathy—Wearing low shoes all the time will not enlarge the ankles, as the extra freedom which comes from this habit means more exercise which should keep them trim and supple. An obstinate case of blackheads will require patience and many treatments, which accounts for your failure to relieve the skin of them. A daily hot bath will help as it keeps the pores freed all over the body which helps to refine the pores of the face.

Otto—The stubby hairs that grow out after you have been using the tweezers on the brows may be made to fall into the line with the old hair if you moisten them with a very thin mucilage and shape all the hairs into a perfect arch. This should be done while the hairs are damp by merely pinching them into the line after which the hair will dry and stay in place. After a few weeks of this training there should be no further trouble.

Louise—Do not try to remove moles that are on the face unless you can have the work done by a skin specialist. Massage the fingers to reduce this plumpness. Bobbed hair is still in style; but if your hair has improved and it has now grown long it is a shame to have it cut off again, especially since you have worn it bobbed for so long a time.

A. C. H.—A simple and effective bleach is made from cucumber juice, or if this cannot be procured lemon juice may be used. Always follow the applications of these bleaches by massaging plenty of cream into the skin. For fine lines use an astringent on the face and throat once each week and feed the tissues every day with as much nourishing cream as the pores will absorb.

Marian—I agree with you that you have formed a bad habit every day you have been using rouge every day for two years although you are now but 16. At such an age nature reverts quickly so stop using these cosmetics and cultivate your opportunities for a healthy color that is natural. Take a hot bath every night and keep the system clear by eating properly balanced meals. Learn to breathe deeply so you will be filling the system with oxygen and the result will be a natural pink to your skin.

Pinky—The hair you sent is a beautiful shade of auburn and it would be a great shame for you to ruin it by bleaching it to an artificial peroxide blonde tint. If you would try wearing black velvet with such lovely hair you would find yourself transformed. Learn to dress so you bring out all the beauty there is in such combinations of color as you possess.

Tomorrow—Astringents.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the large number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. —The Editor.

Mr. Schoell to Be Presented by Alliance Francaise

On Thursday, January 18, at 3:30 P. M. in the Steinway hall at Phillips & Crew, Mr. Schoell, the official lecturer sent to the United States and Canada by the French government, will deliver a lecture on "The French Academy and the Academies," the subject chosen by the members of the Atlanta group. The lecture will be very instructive and very pleasing for Mr. Schoell knows personally the 40 immortals and that remarkably institution founded by the minister, Richelieu, in the seventeenth century under the reign of Louis XIII. has a wonderful history. Mr. Schoell is an orator of great eloquence and simplicity of manner. He has obtained all his degrees at the Sorbonne and is a great linguist.

Mr. Schoell took part in the great war as an officer, was seriously wounded and taken prisoner to Germany, when he wrote a very interesting book on the subject already very well known. Later he came to the United States as a delegate of the high commission of the French republic, where he distinguished himself by his good judgment.

This meeting is free to the members of the Alliance Francaise and all lovers of la belle langue and its literature will be admitted to the treat. The meeting will begin promptly at 3:30 o'clock as Mr. Schoell has to leave immediately after the lecture for Asheville.

American Legion Dances at Segado's

The weekly dances of the American Legion, given every Wednesday at Segado's hall, are proving to be among Atlanta's most popular social events. The members of all posts of the legion and of the ladies' auxiliary units and the members of the several organizations of veterans of the world war are invited. An invitation is also extended to the wide and growing circle of the legion's friends.

These dances are given under the auspices of the Henry Thomas Ross Post No. 78. The committee in charge of arrangements and reception for the dance Wednesday, January 17, composed of officers of Post No. 78 and the auxiliary unit, is as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Evan P. Howell, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Saunders, Major and Mrs. A. L. Pendleton, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Treadwell and Mr. and Mrs. George M. Normandy.

The music for these dances will be furnished regularly by Warner's Seven Aces.

Mrs. Martin Dunbar Gives Bridge-Tea.

Mrs. Martin Dunbar was hostess Monday afternoon at her home in the Della Wanta apartments, in compliment to her guest, Mrs. Clement Evans Dunbar, formerly Miss Helen Knapp, of Philadelphia, Pa.

Pink roses and narcissi in silver vases and baskets were artistically arranged on the bookcases and tables. The tea table in the dining room was overlaid with a cover of filet lace. A silver basket of pink roses graced the center, surrounded by silver candlesticks holding unscented pink tapers.

Mrs. Dunbar was gowned in a Lucile model of gray crepe.

Mrs. Clement Evans Dunbar wore a brown lace gown, combined with chiffon.

Sixteen guests were invited to meet Mrs. Dunbar.

Women's Society To Meet Wednesday.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will hold its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday afternoon, at 3:15 o'clock.

East Lake P-T. A. Holds Meeting.

The Parent-Teacher association of East Lake met Friday at East Lake school house. Mrs. Plage, president, presided, and a most enjoyable meeting was held.

Miss Postell, elementary supervisor of the Atlanta public schools, gave an interesting talk on conditions in the schools and what was necessary for our best interests in the children. Later tea was served by Mrs. Yates with the Girl Scouts acting as her assistants.

Mrs. Gatins to Be Honored.

Mrs. Harry Lee English has issued invitations to a luncheon on Saturday, January 20, at the Piedmont Driving club, in compliment to Mrs. Joseph F. Gatins, Jr., the occasion to assemble a group of her friends.

Famous Disease Brings Romance to Us Today

Miss Sidney Thompson, the young and famous disease of New York city, will be in Atlanta today. She will give a recital at 3 o'clock in the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's club, under the auspices of the Alumnae association of the Girls' High school.

BY MARTHA COODE ANDERSON
Miss Sidney Thompson will play many parts at the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's club this afternoon when she gives a recital under the auspices of the alumnae of the Girls' High school.

Although entirely alone in the cast, she gives the impression that a stage full of characters is assisting her.

Not only will she act entirely alone but she will take one word, suggested by any one in the audience, and out of that one word, build a whole play, plot, character—and I almost said, costumes—so wonderful is her gift of impersonation that she makes one almost visualize the invisible.

When Sidney Thompson was just a slip of a girl she is not much more than that now. I heard her give a recital one winter's day at Marian Harland's house in New York city.

There was an interesting and distinguished company gathered in that hospitable home, as always gathered around this lovely young-old Virginia writer. We were received by her two talented daughters, Mrs. Virginia Terhune Van de Water and Mrs. Christine Terhune Herrick. When Miss Thompson appeared she gave, among other delightful readings, "The Jar of Roses," a play, tense and dramatic, of a woman spy and an international plot. Marion Harland said of her then, "Your art is so rare that we might call it unique. I know of no other individual in whom the creative faculty is so finely joined with dramatic ability. The combination, as illustrated in your impersonations is more than talent. It is an approximate genius and of no mean order."

There were other charming bits given by this talented young Vassar girl which kept her interesting and fashionable audience spellbound to the last degree.

Later on we had her appear at the Dixie club and every woman in that large audience voted her the most unusual and talented reader Dixie had ever had.

Now, all of this is the way of saying that Sidney Thompson has a gift which almost universal divine and dramatic, and practically lost in these more modern and prosaic times—the art of impersonation. She brings back to us the lost degree.

The enlargement of the animal cord which controlled the powerful hind legs of the steersman, a gigantic armored lizard of prehistoric times, was twenty times as large as its brain.

I can not but record a grateful acknowledgment that the Girls' High are bringing this age-old art back to us for a moment, and that interpreted by so charming and gifted a person as sweet Sidney Thompson.

Wanted—Two Husbands

—To save one. Young wife whose husband is in the clutches of two unscrupulous flappers desires to meet two bachelors between ages of twenty and forty. Object: Matrimony

BY INEZ KLUMPH

CHAPTER XVI In Greenwich Village.

"The party starts at the Pirates' Den," the poet announced when he called for them that evening. "We're all to meet there, and then go on to some other place—I heard a rumor about going to a studio down here somewhere, but I don't know where it is, or where it's located. Come on—let's start!"

Cynthia was delighted with the Pirates' Den, from the moment when a huge pirate, in colorful costume, opened the door for them, to that when the same pirate led them out, some time later.

Indoors, they went up a sloping walk to the upper floor. In the rather dim light Cynthia could not see the place well at first; then as she sat down at a table with Lucile and what seemed to be a large collection of men and women who the girl introduced with a wave of her hand as "the crowd," Cynthia saw the big room more clearly.

There was a very small dance floor, vacant at the moment. Several musicians sat near it. The rest of the space, save for narrow aisles, was filled with tables, on which stood the candles which gave most of the light. And everywhere were the waiters—all in pirate costume, huge brass rings dangling from their ears, vivid sashes bound about their waists, colored scarves about their heads; even the trays which they carried could not take away their brigandish air.

"There's going to be a storm at sea, with a mutiny, in a minute," the poet told Cynthia. "It's a great stunt. The storm began immediately. Lights were lowered, the drums gave forth a sound as of thunder, and for a bewildered moment Cynthia thought that the floor was actually rising, as she saw the musicians' platform go slowly upward. Then with a laugh she realized that they were sitting on the top of a big freight elevator, which was being raised.

The pirate waiters rushed wildly past her, dragging clanking chains and shouting. One of them waved an old cutlass over his head. Back they came again—one of them yelled, "No quarter!" Everybody walks the plank," as he sped past Cynthia. She leaned back in her chair and laughed till her eyes were filled with tears.

They do this two or three times in an evening," the poet told her, when the clamor had died down and the music had begun again. "Sight-seers are crazy about it. Want to dance?"

The dance floor was so small and so crowded that it was almost impossible to move about, and Cynthia was glad when the music stopped. The people gathered about the table where they had been sitting were preparing to move.

"We're going where there's more room," Lucile told Cynthia, slipping into her coat. "Don't you like this place, though? I think it's loads of fun. We must make our tea room as distinctive as this is."

Cynthia did not know whose studio it was to which they went. She liked the big, rather bare room, with its splashes of bright color; at first it seemed that the furnishings must have been very expensive, and she spoke to

to the art of the troubadours of France and the Minne Singers of Germany, improvisers who flourished at the French and German courts in those long ago days.

Her voice is charming—so is her appearance. She writes most of her stories; of the days when knighthood was in flower and brings back the heroes of King Arthur's table and restores to our famished senses romance with its silvery wings, love with its fleeting breath and intrigue of courts and kings.

Miss Thompson has studied long and seriously to have attained her present place in the dramatic field—a place unique and untrammeled because she, along with the delightful Yvette Guilbert, whose pupil she is, alone possesses this charming gift of improvising so agreeably and so perfectly.

I can not but record a grateful acknowledgment that the Girls' High are bringing this age-old art back to us for a moment, and that interpreted by so charming and gifted a person as sweet Sidney Thompson.

Confessions of a Debutante

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING

INSTALLMENT NO. 2

"Fat Realities."
WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY.
1. A creature butterfly, whose debut has just taken place.

Mayne, my mother, who is ambitious. My brother, an unknown youth who staggered to my coming out party.

Friday, December 1.
Of course, mother's voice was what awakened me this morning. Otherwise I might have slept right on and not known about the terrible thing she's done.

"I have invited Mr. Grey to dine with us this evening. I hope you haven't made any engagement." She said it as though she was telling me something I'd like to hear. She was standing near the foot of my bed.

"Is that a very delicate thing to do? You didn't really tell him why you invited him, did you?" I was miffed that she'd take the glamour off of my party first thing by bringing me right down to fat realities.

"Don't be foolish. There's many a daughter in your own set who'll be angling for him before the season is over. Jonathan is one of the most solid persons I know, absolutely capable of supporting a wife in the way you have been accustomed to. You'd be quite devoted to a young wife—what more could you want?"

I yawned.
"That's a nice way to treat me after all of the sacrifices I've made for you! It wasn't your father who kept you in boarding school. It hasn't been your father who arranged for the past two years that you meet the right people at the right places. It wasn't your father who planned your party and secured the presence of the most eligible bachelors in town. You're ungrateful! You've never appreciated what I've done for you."

"You may be right. Perhaps I haven't," I said. And as I looked at her, standing there at the foot of my bed, boasting and complaining of the things she had bargained to do with the evening of her marriage vows, my own own heart seemed to be infinitely of spirit and mind.

"You're eighteen," she went on. "It's time you began to think of settling down. At your age a wife is married and helping your father make his fortune."

"Did you love him?" I'd always wanted to ask my mother that, and since overnight I'd suddenly blossomed into a person who could openly discuss the way to get a rich husband, I felt equal to any question.

"Why—I never heard of such a thing!"

"No—I didn't think you had, else you couldn't bring Jonathan Grey here the very evening after my party and spoil it all by—by making me face things so soon!"

I started to cry. I couldn't help it. There were dear, delightful Larry and my fascinating, stranger, whirling around in the back of my head and then—to have this Jonathan person dropped in with a thud! And so soon!

"Fanny came in. My bath was ready and the manœuvre waiting. Luncheon at 1; rehearsal at 2:30; and at 5—My Stranger!"

Tomorrow—When Jonathan Eats!

The per capita consumption of meat in the United States has been increasing since 1915, with the exception of 1917, and it is estimated that the 1922 consumption will slightly exceed 150 pounds for each person.

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcasses beef in Atlanta, Ga., for week ending Saturday, January 13, 1923, on shipments sold out, ranged from 8.00 cents to 10.50 cents per pound and averaged 12.08 cents per pound.—(Adv.)

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and gives relief almost at once.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several elements that have a remarkable effect in the treatment of the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you need for a year—of the three times the money. It is pure, good and tastes very pleasant.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a few days. It means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistent loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pine and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pine is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "24 ounces of Pine" with directions, and don't accept any thing else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT STAND

Says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

Glens Falls, N. Y.—"For over two months I was so sick I was not able to stand on my feet, and my husband did my house work. The doctor said an operation might be necessary. I read testimonials letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began to take it. Before I had finished taking the first bottle I saw what good it was doing me. I am now well and strong, doing all my work for a family of four. I think is remarkable, as I had not dared to run my sewing machine, but had done all my sewing by hand. I truly feel that were it not for your medicine I would not be here today as my case seemed very serious."—Mrs. GEORGE W. BURCHELL, Glens Falls, N. Y.

The surest thing Gungadhura would attempt, once word should reach him, would be to draw around her a network of his own men. Watchers on the hills could pass word along of the direction she had taken; and the sequel, if Gungadhura was only quick enough, would depend simply on the loneliness or otherwise of the spot where she could be brought to bay. For Yasmini's abduction to the hills could only mean one of two things: unthinkable surrender, or sure death by any of a hundred secret means.

So the way they took was wild and lonely, frequented only by the little jackals.
Yet twice they were seen before the sun was two hours high, the first time by a caravan of merchants heading toward Sialpore, who took no notice, but would tell of the encounter.

The second party to catch sight of them consisted of four men on camels, whose rifles, worn military fashion with a slant, betrayed them as Gungadhura's men.
"Desert police!" he called them. "Takers of tents" was the popular description. The four gave chase, for a caravan in a hurry is always likely to pay well for exemption from delay.

They had a signal station on the hill two miles behind them, to keep them in touch with other parties, north, south, east and west. It looked like Yasmini's undoing, for they were gaining two for one along a shorter course but she changed direction, so that the police had lost advantage, and a stern chase on slower camels was their only hope but one. They fired half a dozen shots by way of calling attention to themselves—then wheeled and raced away toward the signal station on the hill.

Yasmini brought her fugitives at last to a little desert oasis, where there was brackish water and a great rock offered shadow to rest in.
"By now," laughed Yasmini, smoking a cigarette in the shadow, "Gungadhura knows surely that my palace is empty and the bird has flown. Yet the telegraph will have not been seen to cross the border, and he will be wondering—wondering."

"What can he do?" suggested Tess.
"Do? He can be spiteful. He will enter my palace and remove the furniture, but I shall recover them all within three weeks—and his own beside! I will be maharajah within the month!"

"But what are you and the priest and Samson all bargaining about?" demanded Tess.
"The treasure of Sialpore! But I make no bargains! I, who know where the treasure is! Why should I offer to share what is mine? I will have a marriage contract drawn, and you shall be a witness. That treasure is my dowry. Listen! But Singh my father died without a son—the first of all that long line who left no son to follow him. The custom was that he should tell his son, and none else, the secret of the treasure. He hated Gungadhura; and, not knowing which the English would choose for his successor, Gungadhura or another man, he told no one, making only hints to my mother on his death-bed and saying that if I, his daughter, ever developed brains enough to learn the secret of the treasure, then I might also have wit enough to win the throne and all would be well."

"And you discovered it? How did you discover it?"

"Not I."

"Who then?"

"Your husband did!"

"My husband? Dick Blaine? But no! He's true; he never told me, he's my everything."

"Perhaps he would have told if he had understood. He hardly understands yet. Only in part—a little."

"Then how in the world?"

"Yasmini's golden laugh cut short the question as she rose to her feet. 'Listen! Tonight I am Abhisarika. Do you know what that is—Abhisarika?'

Tess shook her head.
"I go to my lover of my own accord."

"That sounds more like West than East!"

"You think so? You shall come with me and see! You shall play the part of chet (the indispensable hand-maiden)—you and Hasamurti."

That was a night when the full-moon rose in a sea of silver, and changed into amber as it mounted in the sky. The light shone like liquid honey, and the shadowed earth was luminous and still. The very deepest of the shadows glowed with undertones of half-suggested color. Hardly a zephyr moved.

"You see?" said Yasmini. "The gods are our servants! They have set the stage!"

Hand in hand—Yasmini in the midst in spotless silken white; Tess and Hasamurti draped in black from head to foot—they left the house by a high teak door in the garden wall and started down a road half hidden by lacy shadows. All three wore sandals on bare feet, and Tess was afraid at first of insects.

"Have no fear of anything tonight," Yasmini whispered. "The gods are all about us! Wasuki, who is king of all the snakes, is on our side!"

One could not speak aloud, for the spell of mystery overlay everything. They walked into the very heart of silent beauty. Overhead, enormous trees, in which the sacred monkeys slept, dropped tendrils like long arms yearning with the love of mother earth. Here and there the embers of a dying fire glowed crimson, and the only occasional sound was of sleepy cattle that chewed the cud contentedly. Once, a man's voice, singing by a fireside conjured back for a moment the world's hard illusion; but the stillness and the mystery overcame him too, and all was true again, and wondrous.

Hand in hand they followed the road to its end and came into a clearing at a forest-edge where an ancient ruined temple nestled in the shadow of great trees.

In front of the temple was a pond edged with carved stone.

Still hand in hand, they crossed the clearing midway to the pond, and there Yasmini bade them stand.

"Draw no nearer. Only stand and watch."

She had a great blue flower in her bosom that heaved and fell for proof of her own emotion. Hasamurti's hand was trembling as she nestled closer, and Tess felt her own pulsing to quick heart-beats as she clasped the girl's.

Yasmini walked alone to the very edge of the pond, where she began to dance, moving very slowly in the first few rhythmic steps, resembling a water-goddess, the slinging silk displaying her young outline as she bent and swayed.

She might have been watching her reflection still, so close she danced to the water's edge with her back turned to the moon. But presently the dance grew quicker, and extended arms that glistened in the light like ivory increased the sinuous perfection of each pose.

She moved now around the water, in a measured cadence that by some unfathomable witchery of her devising conveyed a thought of maidenhood and modesty. It dawned on Tess, who watched her spellbound, that there was not one immodest thought in all Yasmini's throng of moods, but only a scorn of all immodesty and its pretensions.

Presently she danced more swiftly, making no sound, so phantasmal and graceful that the rhythm of her movement carried her with scarce a touch to earth.

Then there came a man's voice calling from the temple in the ancient Rajasthani tongue:

"Oh, moon of my desire! Oh, dear!"

In front of the temple was a pond edged with carved stone.

WELL, I'VE FINISHED A LETTER TO OLD TIMER—DEAR OLD WILD FLOWER!—YOU DON'T KNOW HOW MUCH I ENJOYED YOUR LETTER FOR ANY OLD DAY THAT YOU TAKE TIME TO WRITE TO A FELLOW YOU MUST BE INTERESTED IN HIM—

Now hearken while I swear! The day shall die forever And the sun to darkness wear Ere I forget thee, Sigurd. . .

The man put his arm about Yasmini and they turned and walked together to the temple. Then Hasamurti and Tess followed, keeping their distance, until Yasmini and her lover sat on one stone in the moonlight on the temple porch, their faces clearly lighted by the mellow beams.

It was love-making such as Tess had never dreamed of, and Tess was no familiar of hoydenish amours: gentle—poetic—dignified on his part—manly as the plighting of the truth of warriors' sons should be.

Yasmini's was the attitude of simple self-surrender, stripped of all pretense, devoid of any other spirit than the will to give herself and all she had, and knowledge that her gift was more than gold and rubies.

For an hour they sat together murmuring questions and reply, heart answering to heart, eyes reading eyes, and hand enfolding hand; until at last Yasmini rose to leave him and he stood like a lord of squadrons hunched to watch her go.

"Dear lord!" she answered. Then she turned and left him. Not a word passed her lips until they reached the house.

Very late indeed that night Tess was awakened by Yasmini's hand stroking the hair back from the forehead.

"What do you think of him?" she asked. "How do you like him? Tell me."

"Splendid!" Tess answered. "Did you recognize him?"

"Surely! I know Prince Utrupura Singh. He came to my garden party! Isn't he the one who Sir Roland Samson told me ought to have been maharajah instead of Gungadhura?"

Yasmini nodded and pressed her hand.

Tom Tripe came to Gungadhura with his story of finding a silver tube in the cellar of the house occupied by the Blaines and owned by Mukhum Dass.

Dick Blaine had seen him so he had not taken the tube he said. Dick furthermore had rolled a safe over the cellar door Tom reported. Mukhum Dass, during the absence of Blaine, broke into the cellar and stole the tube. Only Pinga the beggar watched him.

A little later Mukhum Dass, smiling as he rode, was struck down by a knife-blow from behind and pitched off his mule head-foremost. The fact of his money having been taken deprived the murder of any unusual interest.

Tess and Yasmini were discussing the latter's future. "When the ceremony is over," said Tess, "and you yourself have proclaimed Prince Utrupura king of Sialpore, there will still remain the problem of how to get Gungadhura out of the way."

"Gungadhura has been sending messages to the northwest tribes. He thinks to prove that the tribes believe the dicerine, and then to offer his army to the English—Tom Tripe and all! Patali put him up to it. Perhaps she wants a necklace made of Hilmen's teeth—who knows! Gungadhura went deeply into debt with Mukhum Dass, to send money to the Mahsuds. From the daily expenses of his army, he could extract a lakh or two. Patali yearns for diamonds in the filings of her teeth!"

"And you have been looking for the treasure ever since your father died?"

"Ever since. My father prophesied on his deathbed that I should have it in the end, but all he told to help me find it was a sort of conundrum. 'Whoever looks for flowers,' he said, 'finds happiness. Who looks for gold finds all the harness and the teeth of war! A hundred guard the treasure day and night, changing with the full moon!' So I have always looked for flowers, and I am often happy."

European News Causes Selling of Industrials

man mark opened today at new low levels for all time at 80. This expressed in dollars means that the mark was worth $0.0084, or 12.50¢ to the dollar, against 23¢ 10, or a little over four to the dollar, the prewar prices.

It also explains why our best bankers here for months past have had the belief that before the final turning point for the better comes Germany must "go over the dam."

ket have done their best to hold prices in the face of European depression. However, the cumulative effect of the news, with pronounced weakness in marks and francs, caused heavy selling of industrials. On the other hand, the expectation of slight currency devaluations, the rails were strong. Southern Railway being well bought on rumors that the forthcoming annual report for 1922 would show a 40 per cent earned for the common stock.

The feeling in the best informed quarters here is that stocks bought for support during the past two weeks will come on the market in the event of any favorable news from abroad and that the news would make for lower prices.

Call money opened at 4 per cent and advanced to 4-1/2 around 1 o'clock. Time money was also easier.

ton avenue, was shot in the neck, directly under the chin, about 11:20 o'clock Monday night by Fred Shockley, a negro, at Broad and Alabama streets. Shockley is held by the police without bond on a blanket charge of disorderly conduct.

According to W. M. O'Connor, a flagman for the Southern railway, who was an eye-witness to the shooting, Johnson, who was in an automobile, ordered the negro, who was walking along the sidewalk with his brother, Heywood Shockley, to crank the machine.

When Shockley did not heed the instruction, according to O'Connor, Johnson took a tire pump from the machine and, climbing out, struck the negro over the head with it, cursing him violently.

At that point, he said, the negro drew his revolver and fired. The bullet pierced the fleshy part of Johnson's throat. Johnson was taken to Grady hospital. His wound is not considered serious. The negro gave his address as 27 Bonnie street.

Davidson Released.

Stocks, Decatur street coal merchant, was released Monday night after the coal dealer failed to identify him as one of the two men who held him up and secured approximately $5,000 in money and jewelry.
